England Regards Situation Acute

Developments in Dardanelles Overshadow Greek Revolution Now—Constantine Imprisoned by Revolutionaires.

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Government circles today took a grave view of the situation in the Dardanelles. It is regarded so critical that it overshadows revolutionary developments in Greece. Opinion is expressed that there is greater prospect of fighting between the British and Turkish Nationalists than at any previous time.

CONSTANTINE NOW REPORTED IMPRISONED

(By The Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.—Former King Constantine, of Greece, who abdicated yesterday, is reported imprisoned by Revolutionaries at Athens.

Ben W. Dodson Is Named Juvenile Judge In County

Ben W. Dodson, of Bachelor's Hall, yesterday was appointed juvenile judge of Pittsylvania county by Judge Turner Clement, presiding at the Chatham court. Mr. Dodson's work will include all juvenile delinquency cases that may arise in the county.

He will occupy the same position in the county that Mrs. W. T. Harris holds in Danville. It is one of the most important offices in the county and was provided for at the last session of the legislature.

No salaries attaches to the office, though there are certain fees in connection with the handling of cases.

Denby Names Twelve Destroyers To Go Abroad

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Secretary Denby today announced that the twelve destroyers ordered to proceed from Norfolk to Constantinople to protect American interests, are Mat-field, Gilmer, Fox, Kane, Hopkins, Bainbridge, McFarland Overton, Sturtevant, King, Barry and Goff. The date of their departure was not announced.

False Statements At Trial Land Negroes In Toils

Tom Brown and Tipp Jeffries, both colored, witnesses yesterday in the case of Anna Hammett, charged with selling whisky, who were caught making false statements and held on perjury charges, were this morning held for the grand jury following a brief hearing in the police court. John W. Carter, commonwealth attorney who swore to the warrants yesterday, in reading the law at the hearing this morning, stated that the penalty on conviction carried from two to ten years.

Ann Hamlett had been caught selling whisky, it was alleged to Brown and Jeffries. When questioned immediately after the arrest of the negroes, both negroes stated that they had bought the liquor and had paid one dollar for it, stating that they would be witnesses for the commonwealth. At the negress' trial yesterday, both men denied they had bought any whisky and made widely conflicting statements about the transaction.

The case of Elnora Harrell, colored, chraged with the larceny of a dress, was set for Tuesday.

Fines of $2.50 and costs were imposed on Sis Lee and Kate Walker, both colored, for gambling.

J. L. Bradbury fined $11.50 for parking his car on Main street more than 30 minutes, as provided by law.

Constantine Not Popular Among British Public

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The second dethronement of Constantine brings no tears, as he has no friends among the British public, owing to his reputed German sympathies during the war. Crown Prince George has indicated his intention to accept the throne, according to a message from authoritative sources. There is no word as to the whereabouts of Constantine.

INSANITY DEFENSE OF WOMAN SLAYER

(By The Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Insanity will be the defense of Mrs. Clara Phillips, charged with beating Mrs. Alberta Meadows, 32-year-old widow, to death with a hammer, was disclosed today when her counsel submitted copies of interrogatories addressed to residents in Texas regarding alleged lapses of sanity on the part of the defendant.

PENSION INCREASE NOW PLANNED

Affects Civil and Mexican War Veterans

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A pension increase of from $50 to $72 a month for Civil and Mexican war veterans is planned by Republican leaders in Congress, a bill providing increases having passed the Senate. Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, its author, says he has been promised it will be passed by the House soon after it convenes.

Shooting Now Marks Trouble Between Families

That the continuous difficulties between the families of John Lipford and John Connelly, both colored, which has brought both parties in court many times, is reaching a more serious stage, was evident this morning when Mary Lipford, 11-year-old daughter of the Lipfords, shot at John Connelly, the ball it is said narrowly missing its mark.

The young negress was taken into custody by Police Officer A. C. Morgan to whom Connelly had made complaint. She was later put under a $50 bond for her appearance on October 2nd. The girl's only statement was that John "Kept on picking on her and that was the reason she shot at him.

John claims he was painting his house and the old and frequent rock throwing by the girl was begun. He says she first threw a stone and strick him on the arm. He told her to stop and she then ran into the house and soon appeared with a 22 calibre rifle, pointed it at him and fired, exclaiming, he says: "Yes I'm going to kill you." John then made a hasty retreat and was soon at Officer Morgan's house. The negress is charged with assault on Connelly with intent to kill.

This is ot the first time that trouble between the families has existed, but it is the first time a gun has been used. They have been frequent visitors in court but at no time has a clear story of the actual happening been given. The tales were so conflicting that they were "let by" with a warning. The children seem to cause the whole trouble. The families live side by side in Elamtown and evidence of rock throwing and mud slinging is given on each trip to court.

Bancroft Climbs Into Stardom

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Out on the field directing the defensive play that neither John McGraw, the manager, nor his first assistant, Hughey Jennings, could do from their places on the bench all season has been Dave Bancroft, field captaining the Giants to another pennant.

"Bann." is listed by many of the competent critics of the game to be the greatest shortstep in baseball today. The teams that have won pennants with a poor, or even medicore man at shortstep—the pivot of the defense—are few and those that have come through winners of the Worl's Series virtually all had topnotchers.

Before the 1922 season ended baseball writers began casting about for the most valuable man to his team of all the major leaguers and a number mentioned Bancroft, placing him in the class with Joe Tinker, of the old Clubs. Hans Wagner, of the Pirates, Rabbit Maranville, of Pittsburgh and Boston, Jack Barry of the Athletics and Red Sox, and a greater player than Arthur Fletcher, now with the Quakers, who was Bancroft's predecessor.

The Giant Captain is of first class calibre both on the defense and offense and as a field general. As a lead-off man he ranks with the best of all time. He covers an amazingly large area in the field and is a pestering, dangerous runner on the bases. He is considered quite a bit better than the cold figures show him to be.

Last season Bancroft hit over 300 for the first time in his career. He began his career as a poor batter and his rise has been due to his superfor fielding and inspirational defense. Ten years ago he hit .213 with the Portland, Oreg., Club, but came up to .254 his first year in the majors with the Philadelphia and was a member of the Quakers the only time that a club representing that city participated in the World Series.

In 153 games in which he played last year Bancroft batted .319 and fielded .960, accepting 396 chances—more than any other National League shortstep and making 382 assists, 396 putouts, 39 times and struck out only 23 times. He scored 121 runs, made 193 hits, for a total of 287 bases, including 26 two-baggers, 22 sacrific hits and, in addition, he stole 17 bases.

Girl At Winston-Salem Shoots Another and Runs

WINSTON-SALEM, Sept. 27.—Inez Foster, a negro girl about eighteen years of age, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon by Annie May Harris, colored. The Harris woman is still at large.

The shooting occurred in the home of the dead girl's mothr, on Vance avenue. The cause of the shooting could not be learned, as there was no one in the house at the time of the shooting. People living nearby stated that they heard one shot fired and then saw the Foster girl stagger out of the kitchen of the house, into the yard, where she fell.

Dudding Wont See Trinkle

Angered At the Governor's Complaint, Head of Prison Farm Cancels Engagement.

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The Danville Bee.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27.—Angered at Governor Trinkle's complaint that he was given too much publicity to charges of mismanagement and cruelty at the Virginia State Prison Farm, and annoyed by the Governor's apparent attempt to hush the matter up and entirely discredit him, Mr. E. E. Dudding, President of the Prisoners Relief Society, has written the governor cancelling an engagemnt he had with him for Friday, Sept. 29th, to tell what h knows about what is wrong with the prison farm.

While Governor Trinkle is apparently playing for time and offering opportunity for Dudding to destroy his own case, the president of the Prisoners' Relief Society is continuing to gather evidence and affidavits to show that the prison farm is a "hell hole" and that the prison board and Captain Penn, in charge of the farm, should immediately resign.

Meanwhile Dudding has written to the Commonwealth Attorney of Goochland county, urging him to investigate the Virginia Prison Farm and place the facts before the grand jury with a view to prosecuting those responsible.

Mr. Dudding first wrote to Governor Trinkle about three weeks ago, calling his attention to alleged mismanagement of the Virginia State Farm and urging that h take steps to correct them. When a week passed and he received no reply Mr. Dudding wrote Governor Trinkle again adding to his charges. He then gave copies of his charges to the newspapers, through this correspondent.

After a while Governor Trinkle wrote to Mr. Dudding, reminding Dudding that he was not a resident of Virginia and that the investigation he sought could not be held unless he preferred specific charges and could give names and dates bearing on the offenses.

Dudding replied specifically naming 18 charges and stating that he would furnish the Governor with the names of his witnesses in a personal interview. The meeting had been arranged for Friday, Sept. 29th.

Since then Dudding has learned from various sources in Virginia that threats have been made against his life, and has informed the Governor that he will not come to Virginia unless he is furnished a guard from the time he leaves Washington until his return.

Now Dudding has turned upon Governor Trinkle and in a letter to the Governor today asks that Trinkle state what he knows about the prison farm. Mr. Dudding stated personally that his latest attitude is in response to a newspaper article sent out from Richmond inspired by Governor Trinkle declaring that everything is lovely at the Prison Farm. Dudding is incensed at this action of Governor Trinkle after the latter had complained that he was giving too much information to the newspapers.

Mr. Dudding's letter to Governor Trinkle today reads in part as follows:

"I have received your letter advising me that you have changed the date for our conference to Friday, Sept. 29th. I have an important engagement for Friday, so it will not be possible for me to come to Richmond at the time you name. A new date will have to be arranged as new developments since I wrote you make things look to me different. We received today eleven new affidavits regarding the Prison Farm, charging everything from graft to murder. Conditions are even worse than I had contemplated up to this time.

"I have direct information that threats have been made against me and I cannot, acting on advice from my attorney, Raymond Neudecker come to Richmond unless you can see your way clear to promise me safe return, and furnish sufficient guard to see that no personal bodily harm comes to me from the time I leave the District of Columbia until I get back here. If you can furnish me such protection then I'll come any day you name.

"Think as you will, when you know as much as I do about the prison system in Virginia you will not be surprised to any great extent at the request I have made. I have evidence enough here, I think, if published, to cause a mob to take things in its own hands. You have not yet realized the seriousness of the situation. Threats have been made by Penn at the farm against any convict who tells what he knows. Never since the days of Nero has such a brute as Penn lived. I believe, if I were a member of that prison board I'd resign as soon as I could sign my name to such papers. My father was a Rebel soldier and I am as good a Democrat is lives in the State and I am sure this is not a political fight. Governor Trinkle I should like for you to tell me how much you know about the Virginia prison farm? Just you take time and put what you know on paper."

Speeches Mark Closing Sessions

Various Reports Will Also Be Read and Unfinished Business Disposed of—Banquet Last Night.

The morning session of the final day's meeting of the Virginia W. C. T. U. was one of the most interesting and inspiring of the whole week. The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, following which devotional exercises were led by Mrs. J. H. Eremick.

The talks on the morning's program included "Peace and Arbitration," by Mrs. Henry J. Hoge, "Publicity," Mrs. F. T. Leftwich; "Social Morality," Mrs. Herbert Sanders; "Social Welfare," Mrs. George W. Phillips; "Sunday School," Mrs. M. H. Day; "Temperance and Missions," Mrs. J. K. Reubush.

During the afternoon session reports of the various committees will be heard and unfinished business will be taken up.

There will be two important addresses at the final session this evening. One of these will be by Miss Amy Spalding, whose subject will be "No More Strangers and Foreigners" and the other by Dr. Valeria H. Parker on, "The Social Morality Movement, Past and Present."

One of the features of the morning session was the introduction of the chairmen of the local committees to the members of the convention. In this connection a brief reponse was made by Mrs. Betty Lee.

A large part of the morning was taken up with a tal kon Publicity by Mrs. F. C. Leftwich, of Roanoke. The speaker outlined the kinds of publicity, which she denominated the most effective.

Mrs. M. N. Day, of Salem, described her work as chairman of the Sunday School department of the W. C. T. U. She told of the great good to be accomplished through reaching the young people, asserting that the Sunday School had been found from experience to be the best medium of approach.

Mrs. Henry J. Hoge, superintendent of the Peace and Arbitration department was another sneaker during the morning session. It was her plea peace and goodwill among nations be instilled in the minds of the youth of the country that finally the dream of world peace might be accomplished.

By way of illustrating her remarks she displayed a symposium of the flags of the world surrounding the legend, "Let uus Have Peace."

The program for this afternoon and tonight is as follows:

Afternoon

2:00—Executive committee.
3:00 Convention calle dto order.
Devotional service—Mrs. L. A. Milbourne.
3:15—Reading of minutes.

Address—"The Social Morality Movement, Past and Present—Dr. Valeria H. Parker.
Singing—"God Be With You Till We Meet Again."
Benediction.
Adjournment.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union's convention closed its day's sessions last night with a banquet in which fully 200 persons participated at the Mount Vernon church lecture room and refectory.

It was a splendid audience which filled the large rooms adjoining the church auditorium, practically all of the 137 delegates registered at the convention, together with prominent local workers and well known Danville people. Among the number were comparatively few men, these including the pastor of the church, Rev. J. Callaway Robertson; Mayor Wooding, F. M. Hamlin, W. T. Cousins, M. O. Nelson J. Carson Watson and a few others, most of whom had seats at the speaker's table. Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, the oft re-elected president, had the seat of honor, with the other officers and the speakers of the evening to her right or left. Orchestral music was provided during the dinner, and the addresses were interspersed with vocal music and violin selections by talented singers and performers.

The dinner itself was an elegant one, quickly and efficiently served with a menu sufficiently elaborate and substantial to please all. When the desert had been dispatched, Mrs. Hoge rapped for order and announced that

Supreme Court Refuses Petition Seeking to Enjoin Secretary of State From Placing Proposal on Ballot.

(By The Associated Press.)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 28.—The Ohio Supreme Court has frustrated another effort to prevent a vote in the November election on the Constitutional Amendment authorizing the sale of light wines and beers, by refusing a petition filed by Attorney-General Hawke, of Cincinnati, seeking to enjoin the Secretary of State from placing the beer proposal on the ballot.

Move On To Indorse Ford For President

(By The Associated Press.)

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 28.—A proposal to endorse Henry Ford for the Presidency of the United States has been prepared for presentation to the resolutions committee of the Democratic State Convention here. What the fate of the proposal will be in the committee none of the State committeemen would attempt to forecast.

Amundsen To Carry First Mail

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 28.—One of the most spectacular chapters in the annals of world wide postal delivery may be written when Captain Ronald Amundsen, famous Norweigan explorer, wings his way across the top of the world in his proposed attempt to fly an airplane from the ti of Alaska to Northernmost Europe via the North Pole. With him in his monoplane will ride a mail sack containing letters written by some residents for delivery to friends in Europe.

If weather conditions had not forced a postponement of the flight until next year, these letters might have reached their destination a week ahead of the time required to make delivery by the established routes. As it is, arriving perhaps more than a year later, they will have a priceless historical value to their recipients who will doubtless follow the affairs of their exporerpostman with intensifed interest.

According to a report by Postmaster Walsh of Nome to local postal officials, the letters were written when Capt. Amundsen was about to depart from the mining camp on his way to Wainwright, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, where he will winter awaiting favorable conditions for his proposed flight.

CROP CONDITIONS IN OLD DOMINION

A synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Virginia for the week ending September 26, 1922, follows:

The week was cool with considerable cloudiness and consequent inadequate sunshine; but no rain fell in the state except along the coast. The dry weather was favorable for maturing corn, digging potatoes, picking apples and filling silos. The soil, however, became dry and hard in most parts of the state at the close of the week, particularly in western and northern counties where droughty conditions have prevailed for some time. Conditions are therefore not favorable for seeding, but plowing is going on in most parts of the state. The bulk of the corn crop is in shock. Marketing sweet potatoes is well under way. Picking apples is progressing, with generally encouraging reports. Pastures and meadows need rain and are short in southwestern and in some northern counties.

Sheep Industry Bridges Crisis

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Five years will be required to over-come the effects of the recent collapse in the sheep industry, according to a survey made public here today by the National Institute of Progressive Farming.

"How close the sheep industry in this country came to annihilation during the inflation period is not realized by the general public," stated the survey. "It was all but wiped out. Imported rams were butchered and sold as meat owing to the collapse of the market."

There is a mad scramble to get back into the business now that the market has returned to a stable level, the survey states, and herds which almost disappeared are being revived.

The supply of breeding stock, sheep association officials say, is the lowest in twenty years and the demandd for such stock on the Pacific coast is the greatest seen in double that time. Texas, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana also report a large demand.

"In the corn belt where the maize crops can be fed to three dollar mutton, the problem is to find the lambs," declares the survey. "It appears that a higher price for fat lambs will prevail this fall, despite the present altitude.

"The institute believes that wood growing should be conducted as a side line rather than as an essential industry. Sheep men are in the habit of virtually ceasing business when the wool-market is against them, and then slowly working back when the tide turns. While the United States cannot compete in the wool markets of the world with Australia and Argentine, yet it is unthinkable that the whole agricultural system should be thrown out of the baaance by ignoring wool."

YOUNG TURKISH PRINCES WILL BE TAUGHT ENGLISH

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—A special school has been instituted in the Palace of Tildiz in order to give the Imperial Princes of Turkey a special education and the benefits of modern instruction.

Professors have been engaged in France and the princes will be taught, among other things, four languages, French, German, English and Latin. Admission is confined to Princes of royal blood and the children of nobles.

New England Markets Glutted Fuel and Demand Is Slight.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 26.—A well stocked coal market in the New England States, swelled by the influx of over 100,000 tons of British coal during the past weeks, has given evidence of slackening the coal movement through Hampton Roads, according to several statements received from coal agents and operators yesterday. One company, Castner, Curran & Bulitt, Inc., announced that four of their fleet of eight coal steamers, now operated in the coastwise coal trade, would be withdrawn and laid up in the James River, while other stated the demands for coal from this section had materially dropped within the past few weeks.

Not all companies interviewed however, stated that coal would be less in demand from the Northern States. Pocahontas Fuel Company, Fan-Handle Coal Company and several others stated they were continuing shipments on the old rate and expected no let up. However, it was said at the office of the New England and Fuel Transportation Company and one of the largest barge lines on the Atlantic Coast that they had noticed a decided reduction in the coastwise movement and demand. it was pointed out hat the decreased demand for Pocahontas coal, shipping through Hampton Roads, would be a temporoary condition at the most. The fact that dozens of vessels with solid cargoes of coal from British mines have recently arrived in New England towns and cities has eased conditions materially. The coal movement from Pennsylvania mines, also has begun over rail routes, and the general feeling might be attributed to a belief that sufficient coal is already on the hand to stop buying for the present.

Shippers from Norfolk do not believe the coal situation in New England can be cared for during the coming winter with the present stocks. A continual flow of coal from this port must continue to keep the section going during cold weather.

The laying up of four steamers by Castener, Curran & Bullitt, namely the Deepwater, Glen White, William N. Page and Sowells Point, does not signify any decrease in business particularly by that line, as the remaining foru vessels, Selwyn Eddy, Harvey H. Brown, Winding Gulf, and Corsica, will continue operating coastwise.

DUDDING WANTS BODYGUARD FOR HIS JOURNEY

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27.—E. E Dudding, of Washington, who made serious charges against the management of the state prison farm, has informed Governor Trinkle that he will not come here Friday to file his charges in person unless he is furnished with a bodyguard when he sets out on the journey. There will be no bodyguard The governor informed Dudding that his charges must be in writing, that he must have the names of witnesses and that they would have a full and free inquiry into all of the allegations, but that he would not listen to hearsay in connection with the charges. The governor said that Dudding was apparently anxious for notoriety in connection with the matter and in furnishing the press with copies of his letters. Dudding says his life has been threatened if he comes to Richmond.

NAVAL OFFICER SENT TO NORFOLK

Chief Machinist's Maurice Patrick Morgan, U S N, who has been in charge of the naval recruiting station in this city for some time, left this morning for Richmond, Va., having received orders to report for duty there. He will be succeeded in the maintenance of the recruiting station in Danville by Maximilian Weinberg store-keeper, U S Navy, who has long been in the service and has seen active duty in all parts of the world

The dispatch of two destroyer divisions from Norfolk for duty in the vicinity of Constantinople will probably have the effect of stimulating enlistments, since the average young American is usually eager to get into the theatre of hostilities, should any develop

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It

In the year of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-acute Rheumatism I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today

W. C. T. U. Banquet Held Last Night At Mount Vernon

"The Forward Look", from various standpoints would be the theme of the evening She then called on Mrs T M Meade, of this city to discuss the forward look from the local standpoint The speaker in a well prepared five-minute address cited her father's long and active interest in the temperance and prohibition movement and, taking up where he had left off, she claimed 10 per cent interest in the work She congratulated herself and her sex generally that women were assuming leadership in striving for better and higher things She eulogized woman's willingness to make sacrifices for the good causes in which she was interested and how she counted it a joy to make the effort Mrs Meade cited the golden opportunity of guiding the young into the ways of safety and wisdom

Miss Almy, a brilliant vocalist connected with Averett College faculty, was then presented and sang delightfully "The Temple Bells" and, responding to a persistent recal sang "By the Waters of Minnetonka" The applause insistently demanding it, she sang a third selection. Miss Gannon was her accompanist

Mrs Laura Hoge, of Loudoun, substituting for Mrs Pauline Roberts, unavoidably absent, responded to the call for the presentation of the forward look from the county standpoint, and making an excellent review of the activities of the county unions in stimulating interest increasing membership and sustaining the various phases of the White Ribbon work

Mrs Savage, of Accomac, substituting for a programmed speaker, responded to the call for the forward look from the State standpoint She stressed particular the duty of the unions and their members to uphold the hands of the officials in enforcing the laws and cited instances of effective work in Accomac in which women had been instrumental in securing abatement of violations of the liquor laws State and federal Her address was rather of the aggressive and militant type in its appeal Mrs Faith T Parrott, of Martinsville, a widely known W C T U worker and an experienced speaker, presented the theme from the national standpoint in a thoughtful review of the status of the work in the whole country and in emphasizing the example and influence of this country upon others

At this point, music was again interpolated, Charles K Carter, well known Danville violinist rendering several selections admirably, responding to the enthusiastic reception of his first performance.

Miss Amy Spalding, field secretary of the Americanization department of the Union and a charming and cultured young lady from the Hoosier State, made an admirable address in presenting the forward look from standpoint of the new American, in the course of which she gave her hearers a glimpse of the work she and others were doing in the assimilation of the country's immigrant population and in stressing American ideals and awakening the interest as well as informing the minds of the new-comers Miss Spalding has the grace of a charming personality a voice of musical quality and excellent culture and she is an effective raconteur, handling dialects easily and having always a sense of humor She regarded opportunity as the keynote of the work in the field in which she labors Construction, she said, is the fundamental need She also emphasized the importance of getting acquainted with our incoming population and of conscious effort to effect a larger and better mutual understanding in the assimilation of our polyglot population She quoted some surprising statistics as to the prominent part that our foreign immigrants play in American industry and in manufacturing and things that must be done to promote the prosperity of the country

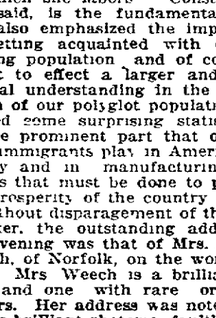

Without disparagement of the other speaker, the outstanding address of the evening was that of Mrs. Amy C Weech, of Norfolk, on the world outlook Mrs Weech is a brilliant woman and one with rare oratorical powers. Her address was noteworthy for its brilliant rhetoric, faultless diction and flowing periods and for the consecutive thought underlying it Her delivery was the crowning characteristic Gifted with the voice of an orator and one evidently trained carefully, she made a remarkable fine, effective and concise address in which she emphasized the world leadership of the United States in the field of temperance and prohibition She regarded the 18th amendment as the working of God's will for the good of the world and summarized the progress being made in foreign countries in the abatement of indulgence in intoxicants

Mrs Lillian Shepherd another easy and effective speaker, then made a very happy presentation of hand-bags, gifts of the W C T U, to the presidents of the Danvile local unions These were awarded to Mrs Bettie Lee, Mrs. M. O. Nelson and Mrs. Luther Hall.

Honor pennants and honor badges were presented to the unions which had made noteworthy gains in membership. Mrs Shepherd and Mrs Strickler making the presentation.

The shower of contributions and pledges which followed the call for them was really surprising to many. Many of the unions by a contribution of a specified sum honored some member by making her a life member, while many of the more active local unions made contributions to the maintenance of the work, these ranging from $10 to $75 This closed the evening program and after singing "Blest Be the Tie", the assemblage dispersed.

Mrs Howard M Hoge, Loudoun county, for the past 24 years president of the State Woman's Christian Temperance Union was yesterday afternoon re-elected almost unanimously

JOHN POWELL AT HALIFAX FRIDAY

John Powell, pianist, will give a recital in the High school auditorium at Halifax Court House Friday evening at 8 p m Powell is so well known, not only in Virginia and the United States but in Europe, that it is a matter of iteration to relate facts concerning his life At an early age he developed welldefined musical tendencies and even before he was five years old he had composed a few little pieces for the piano. When only twelve he had made his debut playing a Beethoven Concert at the Richmond Festival. Later he graduated from the University of Virginia and then at last in 1902 he was free to go abroad for the study of music. From that time until 1907 young Powell studied with Leschetizky in Vienna and 1908 found him making recital debuts in Paris, Berlin, Vienna and London.

In addition to his reputation as a pianist, Mr. Powell has won what he considered a far more lasting reputation as a composer. His two piano sonatas, hissonata for violin and piano, and the "Rhapsodie Negre"—for orchestra and piano.—have won more favorable opinions whenever they have been played. During the tour with Mr. Damrosch and his orchestra Mr. Powell's contribution to the program was always his own concert.

The recital will be for the benefit of the Episcopal church fund.

J. C. ROBERTSON SPEAKS AT LION'S CLUB MEETING

The bi-weekly luncheon of the Lions Club yesterday at the Burton Hotel turned out to be one of the liveliest affairs held for some time. The attendance was larger than usual and the members evinced that pep and enthusiasm which augurs well for the work to be done by the club during the Fall months.

It was the first of several meetings where there will be at least one serious talk on the program. The talk yesterday was contributed by the Rev. J. Callaway Robertson, pastor of Mt. Vernon Methodist church, who told of the work being done by the Community Welfare Association.

The speaker pointed out in his opening remarks that the work of this organization has not been receiving the publicity that similar organizations are wont to receive. This, he said, was natural, since the Community Welfare workers, by the very nature of their work, did not court publicity. However said Mr. Robertson, the organization has been an agency for widespread good in the community The speaker pointed out that many cases had been handled: that persons and whole families had been rehabilitated, that vice had been suppressed: that agencies for vice had been removed and the utterly deprived had been placed in proper institutions.

One of the difficulties which the Community Welfare Association had constantly to combat was the idea that the organization was a charitable institution The speaker said that charity was the easiest of virtues: that cases that incidentally required charity demanded in far larger degree reconstructive work Persons and families have been shown the way to take care of themselves, work of far more importance than the simple issuance of alms

The speaker went into the various types of cases which came to the attention of the organization and closed his talk with an appeal for moral as well as the more substantial support of the Lions Club

The entertainment committee pulled something novel in the way of stunts yesterday Having lent their ears to the rumor that one of the members of the club was seriously contemplating the still more serious step of matrimony the members betook themselves to one of those mercantile emporiums, of which Danville has several, that make a business of handling everything from baby rattles to washing machines and invested in innumerable commodities that appealed to the masculine mind as belonging in the kitchen

It was a very large and a very tinny shower, that was given to the imminent benedict Each kitchen utensil was donated separately and with a purported word of explanation as to its use The whole collection filled a large-sized tin wash-tub (part of the collection) and the member was required to carry the cuisine impediments to his office.

Quality Will Be Sale Arguments Of Clothing Men

By J. C. ROYLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Retail dealers in wearing apparel throughout the country will adopt new sales arguments in presenting their goods to customers during the next six months. Quality and not price will be the standard on which selling is based. Values, wearing qualities, character of workmanship and style will be stressed at the expense of the price appeal This policy is already making itself apparent in widely separated sections as the inevitable trend toward higher prices for both men's and women's clothing becomes more plainly market. The near approach of higher figures for apparel was emphasized today by telegraphic reports from producing centers such as Chicago, Cincinnati, Rochester and Buffalo, and by manufacturers.

Spring lines for 1923 will be generally opened within the next two weeks Manufacturers declared today that they intended to make the advances for those lines as light as possible in order to avoid a check to consumer buying. But they were frank in stating that no one could expect values to be the same as last season at a similar price range. The advances in fabrics and labor costs, they said, must be absorbed somewhere. Prices already announced by some manufacturers show increase of from $1 to $3 a garment

Fabrics themselves show an equally firm upward price tendency It is known that figures on dress goods scheduled to open within the next few days will show increases The withdrawal of certain lines by the leading woolen interests is taken to mean that prices will be higher on future orders Figures quoted on duplicates are above original quotations In explaining stiffening of prices, the manufacturer points to higher wage scales and increased costs of raw materials

Such factors are equally evident in woolen worsters, cottons and silks

Indications of higher prices, however, do not signify that there will not be an abundance of garments which will retail at reasonable figures The proved public demand for medium priced articles insures such a supply. For these, tweeds and the different classes of lower grade wool fabrics will be featured. Many merchants, of course, will continue their selling efforts on a price basis and suits and overcoats ranging from $25 to $35, will continue to be strongly advertised and featured.

Others, however, will make their appeal on the argument that price is a poor standard by which to judge apparel, that there is a wide difference between "good clothing cheap" and "good cheap clothing," and that only garments which will give wear and service are inexpensive.

Whichever mode of approach is used, merchants generally are recognizing the necessity for better selling methods and better and more courteous service. They have been aided to that conclusion by credit men of the manufacturing and wholesale houses, who realize that when the public encounters today a "take it or leave it" attitude, the article usually is left unsold

"Many clothing merchants are just beginning to realize that they have been running the same kind of 'self-service establishments' as Piggly-Wiggly and the cafeterias," one credit man said today in outlining the situation "They have expected the public to come in, select what it wanted from the shelves, try it on, wrap it up and pay the cashier on the way out. With the higher trend of prices and the strong resistance to any advance from the buying public opposed to each other, the standard of service in retail establishments will be higher in the next six months than at an apy time since 1914."

Reports from all sections indicate that shelves are being better stocked and that buyers are being afforded a wider assortment of sizes and styles.

RAILROAD ASK ADDED CHARGES

RICHMOND, Sept. 27.—Three railroads today presented petitions to the State Corporation Commission which are increases for shippers and receivers of freights. The Seaboard seeks to increase charges 100 per cent. for switching of cars for carload shipments after they have been placed for unloading at designated points.

On automobiles the Chesapeake and Ohio asks to be allowed the option of fixing blocks under wheels and to make a charge of $3 for that service. In the past shippers have been doing this for themselves. This will be in addition to the charge for freight.

These roads and the Southern also ask that the charge for drayage of freight from one road to another be allowed them, the charge to be the amount actually paid for this service.

SEAT SALE TODAY

.."Welcome tranger" Comes to the Majestic Monday, October 2nd

"Welcome Stranger" with its thousand laughs, its charming love story and its fine lesson in tolerance and altruism, will be the offering of Sam'H Harris at the Majestic Theatre on Monday, October 2nd.

It is a play that can be seen with unalloyed pleasure during its two hours and a half of performance and which one leaves at the finish with a feeling that in addition to the fun it provides in abundance there is an uplifting lesson learned that makes one more tolerant of the shortcomings of his fellow man as viewed from our own narrow standpoint The artistic work of George Sidney in the leading role of the piece makes that player stand out among present day actors as one of the cleverest portrayers of a type. He is supported by a company of unusual excellence in which are several actors or note. The entire New York production will be used in the performance here.

Prices 10c to $2 50. Reserve seat sale opens at 10 a. m today.

EDUCATIONAL MEET TO BE IN RICHMOND

ROANOKE, VA., Sept. 27—Mrs. Marie Turner Harvey, originator of the Porter Laboratory, near Kirkville, Missouri will be one of the principal speakers at the state educational conference which will be held in Richmond, November 23 and 24, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Hattie J. Semones president of the state parent teacher's association, under whose auspices Mrs. will visit Virginia.

CHANGED VESTERDAY

The change of program at the Majestic yesterday brought with it one of the funiest musical comedy bills in the opinion of many that has been seen this season. "The Broadway Follies" presented by Candler Bros., is engaging the boards this week and the show one which holds the close attention of the spectators throughout, being a clean attraction with plenty of singing, dancing and clever comedy. There are a number of specialties which bring ready applause. A repitition of yesterday's bill will be presented today while another change will take place tomorrow.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produce skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures", over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. J. W. Borroughs of Little Rock, Ark., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. Enas S. Costa of Watsonville, Cal., whose family uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs only about a cent a dose!

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Creasy Listens As Rival Says He Loved Slain Girl

Kentuckian, Charged With Death of School Teacher, Wrote of "Breaking Heart."—Letters Show Miss Lavoy Often Discouraged Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Two rivals for the hand of Miss Edith Lavoy, the Freeport school teacher who was shot to death in her boarding house last June, faced each other in the Nassau County Court at Mineola yesterday where William M. Creasy is on trial for the murder of his supposed finance. George M. Davidson, a commercial artist of Brooklyn, took the stand and identified letters written to him about Creasy.

The entire day was occupied with the reading of love letters to prove Miss Lavoy did not love Creasy at the time of her death. The State rested at 3:45 One character witness Judge Wood of Fort Thomas, Ky., was called by the defense before adjournment.

"For the past five weeks I have realized it was useless for me to try to love Billy." ran a letter dated May 1, 19, and identified by Davidson as having been written by Mis Lavoy "He said he came here with only two objects in mind, to live with me or die with me, and there had to be a decision before sundown I will never marry without love, so it remains to be seen what he means by the latter."

Mr. Davidson's manner in testifying was intensely serious, his answers carefully considered. When asked by District Attorney Weeks, "Did you love Miss Lovay?" he countered, "Do I have to answer that?" and then added, "I am proud to say I did love Edith Lavoy.'

He said when he heard Miss Lovay was engaged to marry Creasy he thought it "the manly thing to do to retire," but in May, 1922, he wrote desiring to renew the friendship, and she asked him to call

A sensation of the afternoon was the reading of a letter found by Creasy's landlady. Mrs. Vernon B. Hurt of Fort Thmoas, Ky. It was identified by the sister of the dead girl as in her handwriting In it she makes clear her decision not to marry Creasy, and admonishes him to "take the blow like a man"

The letter ran. In part:

"For your own sake, as well as mine, pull yourself together and settle down to work again and let time settle the rest Can love be forced? Would you want a wife who did not love you? As for the gun, I will take good care of it and keep it for you.

"Billie, I am sorry for all this, but, again, brace up and do your part. We all have to

"I am sending you my best thoughts and praying that God will open your eyes to the right. Sincerely. "ME"

Miss Lavoy also wrote:

"Billie, you say you love me. If you do, you will do no rash and wicked thing—that is not the way out for a strong man and a soldier. That is the way of a coward and a weakling —one who is afraid to face life.

"In the old days I thought you a strong man, not a weakling. Don't make me know that I was mistaken."

This letter was found in Greasy's trunk by Detectives Fogarty and Mill. It was read by Mrs. Hurt in Creasy's room in Fort Thomas, Ky., after his visit to Miss Lovay in April

THE ARRIVAL OF

ANN

IN SUNDAY'S PAPER

More Drunks Since Dry Acts Went Into Effect

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law may be good things, but arrests for drunkenness in the National Capital have greatly increased since those measures went into effect. There has been also a tremenduous increase in the number of arrests for boot-legging continues to grow by leaps and bounds.

There have been more arrests in Washington for drunkenness up to Sept. 1st, of this year, than in the same period in 1917, the last year that Washington was wet with liquor flowing everywhere and everybody trying to drink as much as possible before the drought set in.

The Volstead law went into effect on January 16, 1920. In that year there were 3,565 arrests for intoxication in Washington, according to the records of the Chief of Police. In 1921 the arrests for intoxication increased to 5,415.

In 1917 when Washington was entirely and dripping wet there were 9,648 arrests for drunkenness, while there have been 6,375 up to Sept. 1, this year.

The growth in the use of drugs is indicated by the number of arrests for violation of the Anti-Narcotic law in Washington which went into effect on March 15, 1915. They were 1916, 22; 1917,6; 1918, 10; 1920, 49; 1921, 66; and 1922 so far, 133

Bootlegging appears to be becoming more popular. In 1920 there were 82 arrests; 1921, 371, and in 1922 the number jumped to 767 for the first eight months of the year.

Greeks Who Got Rich In U. S. Made Penniless

ATHENS, Sept. 28.—One hundred and twenty-five naturalized American refugees are housed in a beautiful mansion, the home of former Premier Skouloudis, on a promontory above Piraeus. The majority o fthese are Greeks who had made fortunes in America and returned to the Near East to spend the rest of their lives Although peniless, they are glad to have escaped from the Smyrna massacre.

The United States government is sending a shiping board vessel to repatriate them to America. Minnie S. Mills, of Olivet, Mich., who was assistant superintendent of the Collegiate Institute, which burned down at Smyrna, has been paced in charge of the party

George Leopoldous, aged 62, one of the refugees told this story:

"I came to America in 1896, an immigrant without a cent. I started a candy store at Worcester, Mass., where I made $20,000 by 1906. I thought that I'd go home and be a rich man. I started in the export business at Smyrna, where I prospered. Just the same, I wanted to stay an American—so I kept renewing my passport for sixteen year. I guess I was a wise man. I had $100,000 last week, and nothin gnow—I would not have been alive if it wasn't for the Stars and Stripes. What shall I do now? Go back where Uncle Sam protects us and start another candy store."

German Money For Families Of War Victims

LONDON, Sept. 27.—J. Havelock Wilson, Member of Parliament, General president of the National Sailor's and Firemen's Union, has received official notification from the treasury that 5,000,000 pounds. of German reparation money has bee nfinally earmarked for distribution among the dependents of 17,000 British seamen who were done to death by the German sink-at-sight submarine campaign.

During the war merchant seamen on unarmed ships did not rank for pensions or compensation under any naval conditions. Their work in manning food ships was accompanied with great loss of life, and the Prime Minister, through Mr. Wilson, gave an undertaking that in the event of victory the first payment from German reparation money should be for compensation to the dependents of this class of seamen.

HOW DO YOU GLIDE? THIS EXPLAINS IT

Here is the A B C of the latest outdoor sport—air gliding. No motor is reuired, just a properly constructed pair of wings, a high hill and considerable nerve.

A couple of strong friends constitute the self starter. Holding tightly to the ends of the launching rope (1) they start running.

By the time they have reached the end of the hill (2) the glider—that is the machine—is ready to jump off.

Caught by the wind striking the side of the hill, the wings bear the glider upward.

During the flight height is gained rapidly.

Everything that goes up has to come down, so the glider starts dropping when the winds which struck the side of the hill begin to die down (4).

Flying low over the second hill, the glider is caught by new air currents (5).

Gaining height he keeps going up as the rising wind (6) strikes the machine.

Holding on for dear life, the aviator starts maneuvering for a still higher-ascent (7).

Instead of gliding right down, the expert somersaults for position (8) and (9).

Just like coasting down a hill of air say the gliders (10).

Keeping an eye on their friend, the two starters are ready for him when he lands (11) with anchor line—or stretcher.

American Mule Reigns Supreme In Near East

ERIVAN, Sept. 27.—The American mule is 2.06 times as efficient as the Armenian ox, and 2.68 times as efficient as the Caucasian horse, according to figures reported by the American farming experts in charge of the agricultural program of the Near East in the Caucasus.

These computations are made on a cost-efficiency basis, taking into consideration capital investment, upkeep, length of service, and amount of work accomplished. The mule beats even the tractor in small farming operations, but farms of more than 500 acres bring down tractor costs per unit of work done to a basis below that of the mule.

American mules were introduced here about a year ago. American relief organizations now use 300 of these animals on their various agricultural relief projects. Plans for the breeding of the American type mule on Armenian soil will be shortly carried into effect in northern Armenia.

Diamonds Stolen At Statesville

STATESVILLE, Sept. 27.—Diamonds valued at $1,000 or over, taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bowles here are still missing. They were the property of a guest from Washington, who came here for a few days.

The guest arrived Saturday on train No. 22, and went direct to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bowles. When she arrived she took the rings from her finger and placed them on the dresser. She decided within a short time that she had better go and see about them, and when she did they were missing. The police were notified immediately and a search has been made, but no definite clue has been found One ring contained several fine stones.

Prison Board Would Limit Food Purchases and Make All Eat in Mess Hall.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The report of the State Prison Commission, of which John S. Kennedy of Brooklyn is President, on the investigation of Sing Sing by Commissioner Frank E Wade of Buffalo, made public yesterday, discloses that more than half of the prisoners there do not eat the food served by the State, but eat at their own expense out of the commissary

Warden Lawes is praised for the discipline of the prisoners and the cleanliness of the institution, but the report censures allowing prisoners to be "eating everywhere around during recreation hour." "All prisoners should eat in the mess hall," it is stated.

The commission questions the wisdom of permitting prisoners to try other prisoners under the plan whereby the judiciary committee of the Mutual Welfare League may deprive a prisoner of privileges for offenses committed during recreation periods, when the league officials are responsible for the conduct of the men However, the report states the Mutual Welfare League is a force for good and "awakens the dormant energies and interests of the inmates in mutual improvement and assistance."

A new call-house for 600 inmates is recommended; an increase in compulsory school attendance of illiterates; a strict supervision over the prisoners' commissary and the limiting of food purchases and the granting of Dr. Squire's request for a dentist, two nurses and three internes.

The report touches on Dr. Squire's statement of an increase in the use of drugs among criminals. Concerning treatment of drug addicts, it is said: "The doctor does not approve of the reduction process He cuts off the drug and gives substituted injections of sedatives and stimulants."

POLICE OFFICER IS BACK WITH NOBLETT

An impressive pro-Venizelist demonstration occurred last night. Revolutionists have entered the city and occupied all strategic points.

Doctor's Own Blood Saves Mother of Three

NEW YORK Sept. 27.—Mrs. Rose Pasquarella, of Brooklyn, is regaining her health in the Holy Family hospital, thanks to the efforts of her young physician, Dr. Felix Scardapane fo the Board of Surgeons of the Broad Street hospital, whose final act was to give her more than a pint of his blood.

The woman, twenty-six, and the mother of three children, was recently taken with internal hemorrhage. Dr. Scardapane ordered her to the hospital for an operation. When it was thought she might die, her body almost drained of blood, the surgeon ordered transfusion None of the family was well enough to spare blood and the husband could not afford to buy any.

The doctor a recent graduate of the Long Island Medical College, has been practicing less than a year. His office is at No. 707A Union street, Brooklyn. When asked how he felt he smiled and said:

"Just about as I have always felt—strong and healthy. It did me no harm."

Final Tribute To Sen. Watson

(By The Associated Press.)

THOMSON, Ga., Sept. 28.—Beneath a clear sky and blazing sun, the body of United States Senator Thomas E. Watson came home and was laid to rest in the soil of McDuffie county as hundreds of countrymen from the Georgia backwoods united with prominent officials in paying their last tribute to his memory. Brief and simple were the funeral services at the Watson home, but every honor within the province of the town was paid the departed senator.

Chicago 'Debs' Now Patronize Barber Shops

Following in the wake of Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, the most fashionable of the bobbed-haired debutantes, sub-debs and younger married women are deserting effete beauty parlors for the bourgeoise barber shops and the famous pink weeklies without which no barber shop is complete.

The girls come in for everything on the price list except a shave.

Pimples? Ironized Yeast! Then Cupid—

A Positive Way to Have and to Keep a Clear, Pure, Lovable, Kissable Skin

Cupid has always said, "I love you, darling little Clear-face, because the sweetness of your soul is revealed to me by the spotless tint of heaven in your cherub skin. I never stay long where there are pimples, 'cause I come from heaven, and pimples never do." Cupid's words ring true. Pimples belong to nobody's darling, no matter how much of a darling you may be. With the proper amount of vitamines and iron in your blood, pimples would be a practical impossibility. The remarkable power of yeast-vitamines when properly ironized is proven by the results of Ironized Yeast. This is not a mere mixture of vitamines and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. Be sure that you take only Ironized Yeast. Your blood will be freed from impurities, your skin will clear almost magically, pimples and skin spots will vanish. Ironized Yeast is a powerful builder of nerve force. It is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet sealed by itself. They never lose their power. M'f'd only by Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga. Start today to take Ironized Yeast, and look out for substitutes and imitations. There is only one Ironized Yeast produced in the world. A clear skin is always a good recommendation. It's yours for the asking.

Smith Sentiment Getting Stronger

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Democratic leaders and delegates after a day of conference and political maneuvering were tonight on the eve of the convention, for apart regarding a choice for the governorship nomination.

Advocates of the nomination of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, declared the day's developments brightened the Smith outlook and they predicted his nomination. Adherents of William R. Hearst countered with the claim that the publisher was gaining in delegate strength and that he would be named to head the state ticket.

Efforts of a third faction, with compromise its aim, were kept well in the forefront. In this quarter the prediction was made that the situation would be clarified before the convention reached the balloting stage.

Charles M. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, received delegations from early morning until late at night in the interests, delegates stated, of party harmony. Mr. Murphy declined, however, to break the silence he has maintained since his arrival yesterday afternoon.

Among the Smith men the impression prevailed, that Mayor George R. Lunn would be the choice of the convention for United States Senator. In other quarters Lunn was regarded as an acceptable candidate for the governorship in the event the Smith-Hearst deadlock failed to yield to negotiation.

The first session of the convention will be held at noon tomorrow.

COAST ARTILLERY CORPS TEAM IN THE LEAD

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 27.—The Coast Artillery Corps rifle team with a score of 1924 out of a possible 2,000 is in the lead in the national rifle team match with four of the five stages finished.

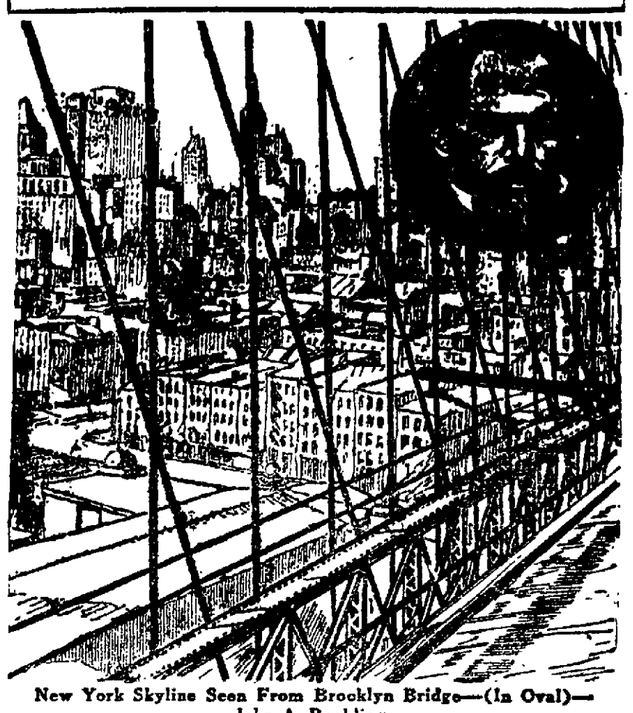

The match was started today. The Marine Corps is second with 1915, the Infantry third with 1910, the calvary engineers fourth with 1909, the navy fifth with 1907.

These scores are the result of firing over the 200-yard slow fire, 200-yard rapid fire, 300-yard rapid fire ranges and the 600-yard slow fire range. The fifth stage will be fired Thursday morning on the 1,000-yard slow fire range with twenty shots for record.

When Roebling Built Brooklyn Bridge He Provided for Overcrowding

ONE of the periodic cries that the Brooklyn Bridge is not safe because of the terrific overcrowding of trains and motor vehicles having recently been stilled by the statements of engineers who know the facts, the whole picturesque romance of the building of the bridge has been again recalled.

When Col. Washington A. Roebling, who wove the great wire cables over plans made by his father, John A. Roebling, announced the other day that the bridge was good for many years to come, he spoke from a knowledge of long forgotten facts. He knew when he built it that it would be subject to overstrain in the future. And when he built into that first great bridge, which ushered in the Age of Steel Wire and preceded his wire cables for the Williamsburgh and Manhattan bridges over the East River, a factor of safety far in excess of what timid imaginations could picture, he built for centuries, not decades.

The cables are made of 19 strands, each strand containing 278 wires, continuous like yarn in a skein nearly 200 miles long. The wires are not twisted, but laid pararellel and continuous and then bound together. And the oblique storm braces that radiate like a web from the top of the towers on each side to 400 feet of the bridge floor beneath are calculated to bear the whole weight of the bridge for that distance if necessary. They are small, but the same engineers that made possible these great modern suspension bridges manufactured them and set them in place.

It took from 1870 to 1883 to build the Brooklyn Bridge, so it is now forty-nine years old. Since the days when it was started the Roebling plant from its initial shops at Trenton, N. J., has spread to Roebling, 10 miles farther down the Delaware.

Col. Roebling still directs the work of his company. Part of its war service consisted of the 80,000,000 feet of Roebling wire cable, now reposing on the floor of the North Sea, which was once a part of the mine barrage. The Adriatic Barrage, which was ready for laying when the war ended, took over 12,000,000 feet more.

Prince George To Succeed Father As King Of Greece

ATHENS, Sept. 27.—(Associated Press.)—King Constantine, bowing to the will of the army and navy, has abdicated and Crown Prince George, who married Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, becomes King of Greece.

"Until the people say they want me no more, I shall hold my throne," the king declared to the Associated Press correspondent last night. He accepts this swift revolution as the voice of the people.

The revolutionary army is marching on Athens, and will reach the capital tonight. Three army officers visited the king and urged the formation of a military cabinet. They were ready, they said, to put themselves at the head of the people to combat the revolutionists, maintain order, and to defend the king.

A street demonstration by prominent citizens acclaimed Venizelos and a republic. There was some rioting and former Minister of Agriculture Sideris, was wounded.

Oddly enough, it was the former American battleship Idaho, now the Greek Lemnos, that started the revolution. In 1913 Greece bought the Idaho and Mississippi. The Idaho was named Lemnos, after the naval victory against the Turks in 1912 off the Island of Lemnos. The Mississippi was named the Kilkis, after a furious battle against the Bulgarians. The revolutionists announce that they will proclaim their choice of a ministry on their arrival in Athens.

Constantine twice occupied the throne of Greece. His first reign began March 18, 1913, with the assassination of his father, George I, and continued until June 1917, when he was forced by the demands of Great Britain, France and Russia to abdicate because of his pro-German sympathies. He was succeeded by his second son, Alexander, who was nominated by the deposed monarch, and who had promised to carry out Constantine's policies despite allied demands to the contrary. For three stormy years Alexander reigned in name only. Then his tragic death in 1920, due to the bite of a pet monkey, again turned the spotlight on Constantine, who had spent the intervening thre years in exile with his large family.

A plebiscite had shown that the Greek nation was insistent upon the return of Constantine upon the throne ad while the allied governments continued to exert every pressure at their command, to prevent his reascension, the former King marched triumphantly into Athens and was crowned in December, 1920, amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm. Constantine was born August 3, 1868, and obtained his education under German tutors and army officers. Once, in 1909, he was dismissed as commander of the Greek army because of popular clamor against him; but he became a national hero in the Balkan war of 1912, when he led a Greek army in the capture of Salonika from the Turks. In consequence of this achievement he was accorded the popular title of "The Liberator."

Prince George is the eldest son of Constantine. He also was pro-German and was excluded from succession by the allied terms, which compelled his father's abdication in 1917. He accompanied the royal party to Asia Minor in 1921 and was a member of the staff of Greek commander, General Papoulas. George was born in July 1890, and married Princess Elizabeth of Rumania in the spring of 1921. The only other son of Constantine is Prince Paul born in December, 1891.

While Prince George has been regarded as heir apparent since Constantine's return to the throne, the deposed monarch also has four brothers who were considered eligible for kingly honors.

These in the order of succession are Prince George, after whom the Crown Prince was named, born in 1869. Prince Nicholas, born in 1872, Prince Andreas, born in 1882, and Prince Christopher, born in 1888. Christopher's wife is the former Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the "American Tin Plate King."

15,000 REVOLTING GREEK TROOPS IN EXPEDITION

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27—(By The Associated Press)—There are 15,000 revolting troops in the Greek revolutionary expedition from Mytilene which has gone to the Greek mainland, according to a wireless despatch from Captain J. B. Rhodes of the American destroyer Litchfield at Mytilene. The message says these troops landed at Piraeus, the port of Athens, with the demand for the abdication of King Contantine in favor of the Crown Prince.

In addition to the election of a new government, says the message, the revolutionists demand support for the Greek troops in western Thrace in resistance to Mustapha Kemal.

The wireless adds that the battleship Lemnos and two destroyers in the Aegean were loaded with troops in command of a Venezilist officer; also that the governor of Mytilene and Generals Bacre and Frango had been imprisoned by the revolutionists.

ABDICATION OF GREEK KING WAS EXPECTED

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 27.—The announcements of the abdication of King Constantine of Greece aroused no surprise here.

It has been rumored for several days that he was negotiating to obtain permission to reside in Denmark. It is understood Dowager Queen Olga of Greece, who has been visiting Denmark recently, has taken up her residence at the same castle as the former Dowager Empress of Russia.

DRAFT OF REPLY TO PROPOSALS OF ALLIES

SMYRNA, Sept. 27.—(By The Associated Press)—Yussuf Kemal Bey, the nationalist foreign minister, left for Angora today with the draft of the nationalist's reply to the allied peace proposals. It is understod to embrace to the following conditions:

1. Prior to the opening of the peace conference the nationalists shall occupy all stragetical points in order to achieve the provisions of the nationalists pact regarding Thrace.
2. All British forces now enroute shall be recalled and the British shall abstain from fortifying the neutral zones.
3. The Nationalists shall occupy Thrace before the peace conference.
4. The Nationalists reserve the right to contest certain other points in the allied proposals.
5. The Nationalists object to the demilitarization of Thrace and Marmora but no objection is raised to fortification of the Dardanelles.
6. Soviet Russia, Ukraine, and all countries bordering on the Black Sea shall be represented at the conference.
7. In the event of acceptance of the foregoing conclusions the Nationalists agree to an armistice conference at Mudania with the allied generals.
8. Three days after the Mudania conference the proposed peace negotiations shall begin at Symrna.

GIRLS' RIVALS CAUSE PITCHED FIGHT OF 100

FULTIN, Ills., Sept. 27—The rivalry of two high school boys for the attention of a girl brought about a combat in the field near here tonight with fifty Fulton high school boys matched against about the same number in the neighbor town of Morrison. A sheriff's force ended the fray without casualties although the hostiles were hotly attacking each other with clubs and hoes.

The two principal rivals fought it out with fists on Sunday and after school yesterday the Fulton school was stirred with the report that Morrison planned an invasion by automobile. Hastily mobilizing, an army of Fulton boys set out on the Morrison road and the caravans met just outside Fulton.

The city marshall's efforts to mediate were futile and he summoned reinforcements from Morrison, the county seat.

Russia's Art Treasures Are Well Guarded

PETROGRAD, Sept. 27.—The Hermitage, one of the greatest art galleries in the world, exists today in all its pre-war magnificence as a visible refutation not only of rumors that Russia's finest paintings had been destroyed or stolen during the revolution but of these adventurers who occasionally have peddled in New York and Paris supposedly original paintings from its collections.

Small groups of school children, piloted through the galleries by teachers; a few art students occasional proletarian enthusiasts, and now and then a foreigner who strays into Petrograd are about the only visitors to the galleries, and they seem lost in its spacious rooms. But the great paintings still are on the splendid walls; the rare porcelains and Greek vases of priceless antiquity are still in their glass cabinets the marble statues brought from the ends of the earth still stand on their pedestials; the unrivalled collections of old coins, Egyptian scarabs and countless other art objects are still in their carefully numbered trays, and the mummies still lie in their sarcophagi, grim and grinning despite the latest revolution that has passed over their heads.

The Winter Palace, adjoining the Hermitage, still bears marks of the shelling and machine-gunning it suffered during the early days of the Bolshevik coup d'etat, but the building housing the valuable art collections has been spared even these marks of battle. Its exterior walls are red and smooth, the ten gigantic Atlantes in Finnish marble—huge, naked Herculii 20 feet tall and each carved from a single block of granite—hold up its portico in lieu of pillars and are as smooth and glistening as the day they were placed there in 1852, although the square that fronts them has been the scene of much hard fighting.

Immediately after the Bolsheviki won control, special guards were placed about the Hermitage and it was saved from looting. The already priceless collections are being augmented today by the most valuable of the objects of art confiscated by the government from private persons during the early days of the revolution.

In paintings the Hermitage ranks with the Louvre in Paris and the famous galleries of Spain and Italy. The Dutch and Flemish pictures are more numerous and more valuable than are the collections in Holland or Belgium.

In all there are more than 2,000 paintings, each of which is worth a small fortune, and there are besides 200,000 engravings and 12,000 drawings each so valuable that it merits careful preservation for posterity.

Most of Petrograd's other famous galleries and museums, which also are again being opened to the public, prove, like the Hermitage, to be infact. The same is true of Moscow and other principal Russian cities, where the Soviet government, like the regime of the czar, has zealously guarded collections of art.

OKLAHOMA GIRLS CHAMPION ROPERS

VINITA, Okla., Sept. 27—Teddy Lee Harmon, 8, and Lucille Harmon, 11, known as the "Harmon Sisters" have been granted the title of "Champion Child Ropers of the World" by popular verdict.

The sisters are the children of Jim Harmon, rancher, of Vinita.

The girls gained their title through roping, riding and exhibitions at rodeos and round-ups held throughout the southwest this year.

The two girls have performed before General Pershing, General Diaz, Mme. Schumann-Heink and other notables. They were awarded first prize at the recent American Legion convention at Kansas City.

They have been riding and handling ropes since they were two years old, according to their father.

A petition recently presented to the House of Lords was a mile in length and had 73,195 signatures.

FORMER SERVICE MEN TO BE TAKEN TO GOV. HOSPITALS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Approval of a program, outlined today to President Harding by representatives of the American Legion which contemplates the removal of former service men suffering from mental diseases from contract hospitals to government owned and operated institutions at the earliest possible moment was expressed tonight by Brig. General C. E. Sawyer, chief of the co-ordinator of the federal hospitalization board, in a statement issued through the American Legion.

Dr. Sawyer said the president had expressed his desire "that any difference of opinion which might interfere with the best possible care of disabled ex-service men should be renewed."

The views of the American Legion in regard to the care of neuro-psychiatic patients were outlined to Mr. Harding and Dr. Forbes of the veterans bureau by A. A. Sprague, chairman of the legion's rehabilitation committee, and Doctors W. T. Salmon, New York City, and W. F. Lorenz, Madison, Wis., at a conference this morning. Later the legion representatives conferred with Dr. Sawyer, who recently has been criticized by Mr. Sprague for "obstructing" the hospitalization program.

Dr. Sawyer, declaring that as a result of the conference an agreement had been reached for close co-operation with the legion and the federal board of hospitalization, saying this arrangement clears up a misunderstanding relating to the care of ex-service men and promises united activities in seeking the best of service that may be given.

ANNUAL PARADE OF G. A. R. IS HELD

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 27.—(By The Associated Press.)—With the fifty-sixth annual parade of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic over, and most of the participants throughly relaxed from their wearisome march, delegates to the encampments tonight were discussing the events that will take place tomorrow when the first business session of the reunion convenes tomorrow.

The election of a new commander to succeed Lewis Pilcher, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be the most important business on the program.

It appeared that Judge T. W. Willitte, of Tampa, Iowa, will be the unanimous choice of the delegates.

The nature of the resolutions to come before the business session has not been announced. There is less talk of taking action in answer to the resolution passed at the last reunion of Confederate veterans at Richmond, Va., charging President Lincoln with being personally reponsible for the Civil War.

Commander Pilcher has said that it is his opinion the matter would be ignored.

Other national officers have said, however, that the Confederate veterans' charge will be answered.

A pathetic incident to today's parade was the death from exhaustion of J. W. Mackenhausmen, of White Bear Lake, Minn., within fifty yards of the reviewing stand.

NELSON S. GROOME DIES

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27.—Immediately upon receipt of a telegram announcing the sudden death of Nelson S. Groome, member of the House of Delegates from Elizabeth City county, Governor Trinkle this afternoon ordered the flag on the State Capitol building lowered to half mast. Colonel John W. Williams, clerk of the House of Delegates communicated with Richard L. Brewer, of Nansemond, speaker of the House and later announced Delegates J. E. Wilkins, of Newport News; Norvell L. Henley, of Williamsburg and Earl H. Wright, of Portsmouth as the committee from the House of Delegates to attend the funeral.

Buying or Investing —Which?

THERE is a great difference between buying a watch and investing in it. We buy to possess. We invest in a thing for what return it will give us.

Here is a Waltham Watch that will pay you back more than you ever put into it. You buy something more than a watch—

You buy beauty—you buy dependability—you buy lifelong service—you buy time-telling, all the time—you buy seventy years of watchmaking skill and world famous achievement concentrated at your service.

In other words, when you give your jeweler seventy-five dollars for this Waltham masterpiece, you invest in a watch that will not fail you and will become more valuable as the years prove to you its inherent goodness and lasting fidelity.

Ask your jeweler to show it to you. It is a beauty. He knows why Waltham Watches excel.

What Is It? Even Veteran Long Island Fishermen Can't Tell

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Clarence Seaman of Patchogue, L I a collector on the Montauk division of the Long Island Railroad Sunday scooped out of shallow water near the shore at Blue Point just east of Patchogue, a peculiar looking fish of the sea-robin variety. The freak, which lived only a few hours after being caught, resembled a toad in color, was about four inches long by three wide, with two little fins, one on each side of its plump body

It had only one eye on the left side of its broad cat-like or owl-shaped head, but had three tails, the middle one, about three-quarters of an inch long, being the biggest

Its body was covered with protruding cone-shaped pliable horns about a third of an inch long When held in the hand it spat out audibly while curling its fashion and inhaling the air from which it soon filled up to the shape of a ball, when it floated lightly on the water like a toy balloon

Old baymen and fishermen here who know well about fish say they never saw its like before Mr Seaman yesterday took the freak to the Battery Park Aquarium

Surprised to Find Herself Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass.—"I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do me much good, so one day after talking with a friend who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also. I find that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my housework, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others."—Mrs. BLANCHE SILVIA, 59 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

ONLY AND EXCLUSIVE PICTURES OF PIT WHERE MINERS MET THEIR DEATH

The last message of the entombed miners This picture obtained exclusively by the Bee and NEA Service shows the only message sent to the outside world by the men "3 o'clock Gas getting strong—Fezzie, and the unfinished messages "3.20' and '4 o'cl—' Note the scratched-on message below fessels name—" 1-2 knocked out '

The last desperate effort of the entombed m to escape death by poisoning gas was a nastily erected bulkhead the crevices stuffed with miners' clothing The picture obtained exclusively by the Bee and NEA Service, shows this bulkhead with two of the rescue party examining it It was here that 46 bodies were found.

MURDERS AND SUICIDES INCREASE IN GERMANY

BERLIN Sept 27—Germany is setting new high records for suicides and murders

Although the death rate as a whole now practically equals that of the pre war days deaths by accidents, murder and suicides have greatly increased during the first six months of the present year And this despite the fact that there have been no street fighting, military outbreaks or other instances of mass killing

Figures gathered from 46 cities with a total population of more than 16,500,000 for the first half of the year, show 122,220 deaths or about 14 per thousand population The number of violent deaths totalled 5,665, of which 1,468 were in Berlin alone.

In Berlin alone, during the first five months of the year, 48 persons were murdered and 669 committed suicide.

La Follette After Income Tax Cheaters

WASHINGTON Sept 26—As soon as Congress reconvenes Progressive Senators led by LaFollette Wisconsin, will revive their efforts to compel publicity of income tax returns

Investigations already made, according to Senator LaFollette, have disclosed amazing income tax frauds within the State One large corporation he said has defrauded the U S of nearly $500 000 in taxes He estimates Wisconsin tax frauds will total $50 000 000 Senator LaFollette contends that the Federal government has been defrauded to the extent of as much as $1 000 000 000 With the support of irregular Republicans and man Democrats he will seek to amend the existing tax so that the Treasury Department in demand from Congress, will be forced to furnish to the public returns of corporations and individuals.

HOW TO FLY.

The Germans seem to have started something with their air-gliding contests, in which one flier remained in the air three hours in an airplane without a motor.

A gliding craze now is sweeping England, progressive London papers offering big prizes.

And it's a safe bet that the gliding craze will invade America and furnish thrills for the cautious who prefer to stay on the ground and "let George do it" in the air.

A glider is a machine that travels on "air waves" about the same as a sailboat travels on water. It has a rudder for steering, also "control surfaces" which the pilot tilts to make the craft rise or descend and to balance the glider if it gets lopsided and starts to tilt.

First you have to master 'aerial balance," same as you learn to balance on a bicycle. All depends on the pilot's skill. He has to learn to use his artificial wings as a young bird learns to fly.

You sit in the car, preferably on a hillside. Helpers grasp a long rope, attached to the glider, and run with it until the wind catches under the wings and you "take off" like a kite. Then you fall.

A motorless glider, of the type used by Herr Hentzen, German gliding champion, moves forward 16 feet for each foot it descends after taking off from a hillside, provided there are no up-gusts of wind to help move the craft upward and forward.

The Germans started their gliding by long and patient watching of hawks, gulls and swallows in flight. Air experts and mathematicians thus figured out the curves and tricks used by soaring birds.

Chief obstacle to gliding by man is that the pilot is apt at any second to strike a new air current or hole. German observers discovered that birds "instinctively scent" new air currents with their heads. So the Germans are trying to develop a similar "air sense." They are helped by a secret chemical skin-coating which makes their faces sensitive to the least touch of wind.

As you probably suspect, the German general staff began quietly to investigate gliding as far back as 1915. This was learned recently by French spies. The peace treaty forbids Germany making high-power airplanes. So she turns to planes without motors.

Scoop's Colyum

PLEASANT GAP, Sept. 28—(Grapevine Wireless.)—Tom Watson's gone, that old man, we ne'er shall see him more, nor will we hear his clarion voice upon the Senate floor. This brief tribute is paid to the late lamented senator from Georgia, whose sudden passing shocked his friend here and elsewhere. Julian Fretwell was one of his ardent admirers and frequently regaled Mr. Cantaday at the newsstand by reading excerpts from the Congressional Record as well as press comment, pro and con, which he gathered up. Mr. Watson undertook the herculean task of making over the world, and viewed with suspicion everything included in the comprehensive term, "big business." He was a fearless man and spoke his mind freely, his publication was widely read and he undoubtedly had a large following, especially in Georgia, where he was swept into office in one of the hottest political contests ever staged in the Cracker State.

Unlike Tillman, he did not remain long enough under the spell of that august body, the United States Senate, to tone down to the conservative level which marks the upper house of Congress. Some of Watson's contentions were almost childish, yet his sincerity of purpose was seldom questioned. As he found many things out of gear in every-day life he aimed at reformation in government and did not hesitate to institute investigations in many departments of the public service.

Some of Watson's unfinished tasks will likely be carried on by Reed of Missouri and LaFollette of Wisconsin, both of whom will doubtless be re-elected in November. Still neither can take his place. They are different types, in some respects, although aggressive. Reed may be called a conservative radical, while LaFollette measures up to the radical progressive. Both are endowed with brilliant intellect and lend great force to any cause they espouse.

"Ah, Michael, my Michael!" Liane cried. It is so real to me, so true, so overwhelming, the greatest thing of all! How can it be otherwise to you? . . . No: do not think I complain. But, oh my dear! were I only able to make you understand, think what life could be to us, to you and me. You with your wit, your strength, your skill, your poise—I with my great love to inspire and sustain you—what a pair we should make! Think, Michael—think!"

"Why, I think two things," said Lanyard: "First, that you deserve to be soundly kissed." He kissed her, but with discretion, and firmly put her from him. "Then"—his tone took on a note of earnestness—"that if what you have said is true, it is a pity, and I am sorry, Liane, very sorry. And, if it is not true, that the comedy was well played. Shall we let it rest at that, my dear?"

Half lifting her, he helped her back into her chair, and as she turned her face away, struggling for mastery of her emotion, true or feigned, he sat back, found his cigaret case, and clipping a cigaret between his lips, cast about for a match.

As he struck the light he heard a sudden, soft swish of draperies as the woman rose.

Moving toward the saloon companionway, she passed him swiftly, without a word, her head bended, a hand pressing a handkerchief to her lips. Forgetful, he followed her swaying figure with puzzled gaze till admonished by the flame that crept toward his fingertips. He put it to his cigaret. At the second puff he heard a choking gasp, and loked up again.

The woman stood alone, en silhouette against the glow of the companionway, her arms thrust out as if to ward off some threatened danger. A second cry broke from her lips, shrill with terror, she tottered and fell as, dropping his cigaret, Lanyard ran to her.

His vision dazzled by the flame of the match, he sought in vain for any cause for her apparent fright. For all he could see, the deck was as empty as he had presumed it to be all through their conversation.

"Popinot!" she cried, as Lanyard hastily took the glass away. "Popinot—he was there—I saw him—standing there!"

A trembling arm indicated the starboard deck just forward of the companion housing. But of course, when Lanyard looked, there was no one there . . . if there had ever been . . .

"Impossible!" Phinuit commented when told of the Apache's appearance.

"Nonsense," Monk added, speaking directly to Liane.

She had recovered much of her composure, enough to enable her to shrug her disdain of such stupidity.

"I tell you only what my two eyes saw."

"And I tell you, while that assassin is at liberty aboard this yacht, not one of our lives is worth a sou—no, not one!"

"Oh, we shall search." Monk gave in as one who indulges a childish whim. "But I can tell you now what we'll find—or won't."

"Then heaven help us all!" Liane went swiftly to the door of her room, but there hesitated, looking back in appeal to Lanyard. "I am afraid . . ."

"Let me have a look round first."

And when Lanyard had satisfied himself there was nobody concealed in any part of Liane's suite, and had been rewarded with a glance of gratitude—"I shall lock myself in, of course," the woman said from the threshold—"and I have my pistol, too."

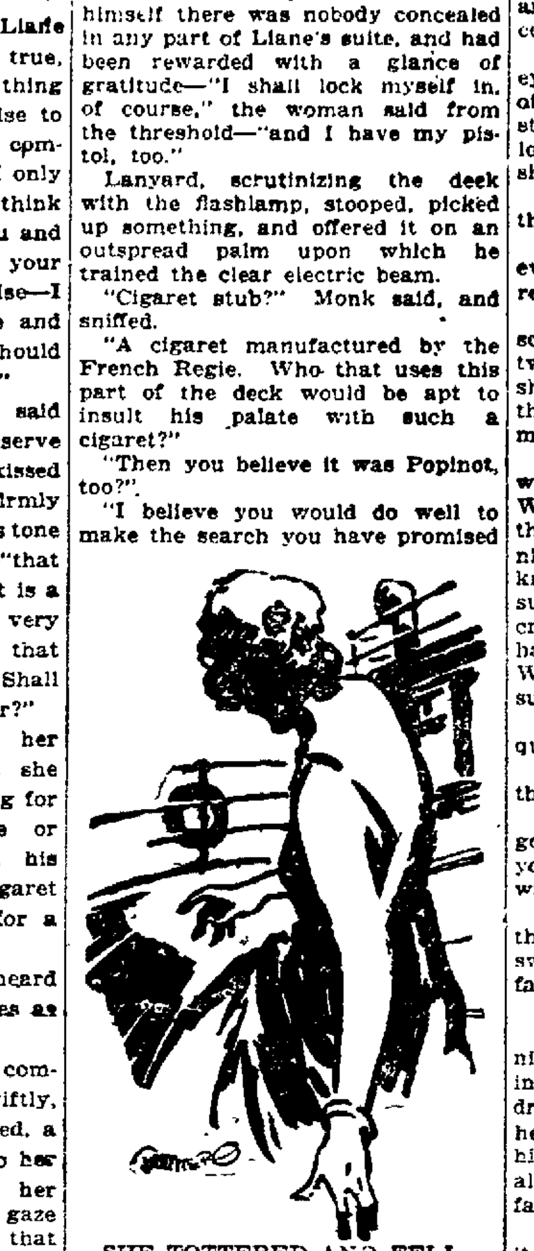

Lanyard, scrutinizing the deck with the flashlamp, stooped, picked up something, and offered it on an outspread palm upon which he trained the clear electric beam.

"Cigaret stub?" Monk said, and sniffed.

"A cigaret manufactured by the French Regie. Who that uses this part of the deck would be apt to insult his palate with such a cigaret?"

"Then you believe it was Popinot, too?"

"I believe you would do well to make the search you have promised

SHE TOTTERED AND FELL.

thorough and immediate."

"Plenty of time," Monk replied wearily. "I'll turn this old tub inside out, if you insist, in the morning."

Whether or not sleep brought Monk better counsel, the morning's ransacking of the vessel and the examination of her crew proved more painstaking than Lanyard had expected. And the upshot was precisely as Monk had foretold, nothing. He reported drily to this effect at an informal conference in his quarters after luncheon.

"Now," Monk announced with a little bow, "for what, one imagines, Mr. Phinuit would term the Elaborate Idea!"

CHAPTER XX
The Trap for the Wolf

"THEY are such, monsieur," Monk said with that deliberation which becomes a diplomatic personage—"your talents are such that you can, if you will, become invaluable to us."

Phinuit chuckled outright at Lanyard's look of polite obtuseness.

"Never sail a straight course—can you, skipper?—when you can get there by tacking. Let me act as interpreter. Mr. Lanyard: this giddy association of malefactors here present has the honor to invite you to become a full-fledged working member and stockholder of equal interest with the rest of us, participating in all benefits of the organization, including police protection. And as added inducement we're willing to waive initiation fee and dues. Do I make myself clear?"

Lanyard lifted his meditative gaze to the face of Phinuit.

"I find something lacking . . . You have shown me but one side of the coin. What is the reverse? You have forgotten to name the penalty which would attach to a possible refusal."

"I guess it's safe to leave that to your imagination."

"There would be a penalty, however?"

"Well, naturally, if you're not with us, you're against us. And to take that stand would oblige us, as a simple matter of self-preservation, to defend ourselves with every means at our command."

"Means which," Lanyard murmured, "you prefer not to name."

"Well, one doesn't like to be crude."

"I have my answer, monsieur—and many thanks. The parallel is complete."

With a dim smile playing in his eyes and twitching at the corners of his lips, Lanyard leaned back and studied the deck beams. Liane Delorme sat up with a movement of sharp uneasiness.

"Of what, my friend, are you thinking?"

"I am marveling at something everybody knows—that history does repeat itself."

The woman made a sudden hissing sound, of breath drawn shortly between closed teeth. "I hope not!" she sighed. "You see, my friend, I think I know what is in your mind, memories of old times . . ."

"True: I am thinking of those days when the Pack hunted the Lone Wolf in Paris, and made him much the same offer as you have made tonight. . . . The Pack, you should know, messieurs, was the name assumed by an association of Parisian criminals, ambitious like you, who had grown envious of the Lone Wolf's success, and wished to persuade him to run with them."

"And what happened?" Phinuit inquired.

"As memory serves, I told them they could all go plumb to hell."

"Well," Phinuit hazarded with a good show of confidence, "I guess you won't tell us to go plumb to hell, will you?"

"No; I promise to be more original than that. You shall have your answer by the time we make our landfall—perhaps before."

• • •

Lanyard went to bed, the last night out, leaving a noisy gathering in the saloon, and read himself drowsy. Then turning out his light he slept. Some time later he found himself instantaneously awake, and alert, with a clear head and every faculty on the qui vive.

He felt a presence, and knew that it waited, stirless, within arm's-length of his head. Without much concern, he thought of Popinot, that "phantom Popinot" of Monk's derisive naming.

Well, if the vision Liane had seen on deck had taken material form here in his stateroom, Lanyard presumed it meant another fight, and the last, to a finish, that is to say, to a death.

He heard a whisper, or rather a mutter, a voice he could not place in its present pitch.

"Awake, Monsieur Delorme?" it said. "Hush! Don't make a row, and never mind the light."

His astonishment was so overpowering that instinctively his tensed muscles relaxed and his hand fell back upon the bedding.

"It's me—Mussey."

Lanyard echoed witlessly: 'Mussey?"

"I had to have a bit of a talk with you without anybody's catching on."

"Well," Lanyard said, "I'm damned!"

"Look here . . ." The mutter stumbled. "I want to ask a personal question. Is or isn't your right name Lanyard, Michael Lanyard?"

"That's an unusual name, Michael Lanyard," cautiously replied its proprietor. "How did you get hold of it?"

"They say it's the right name of the Lone Wolf. Guess I don't have to tell you who the Lone Wolf is."

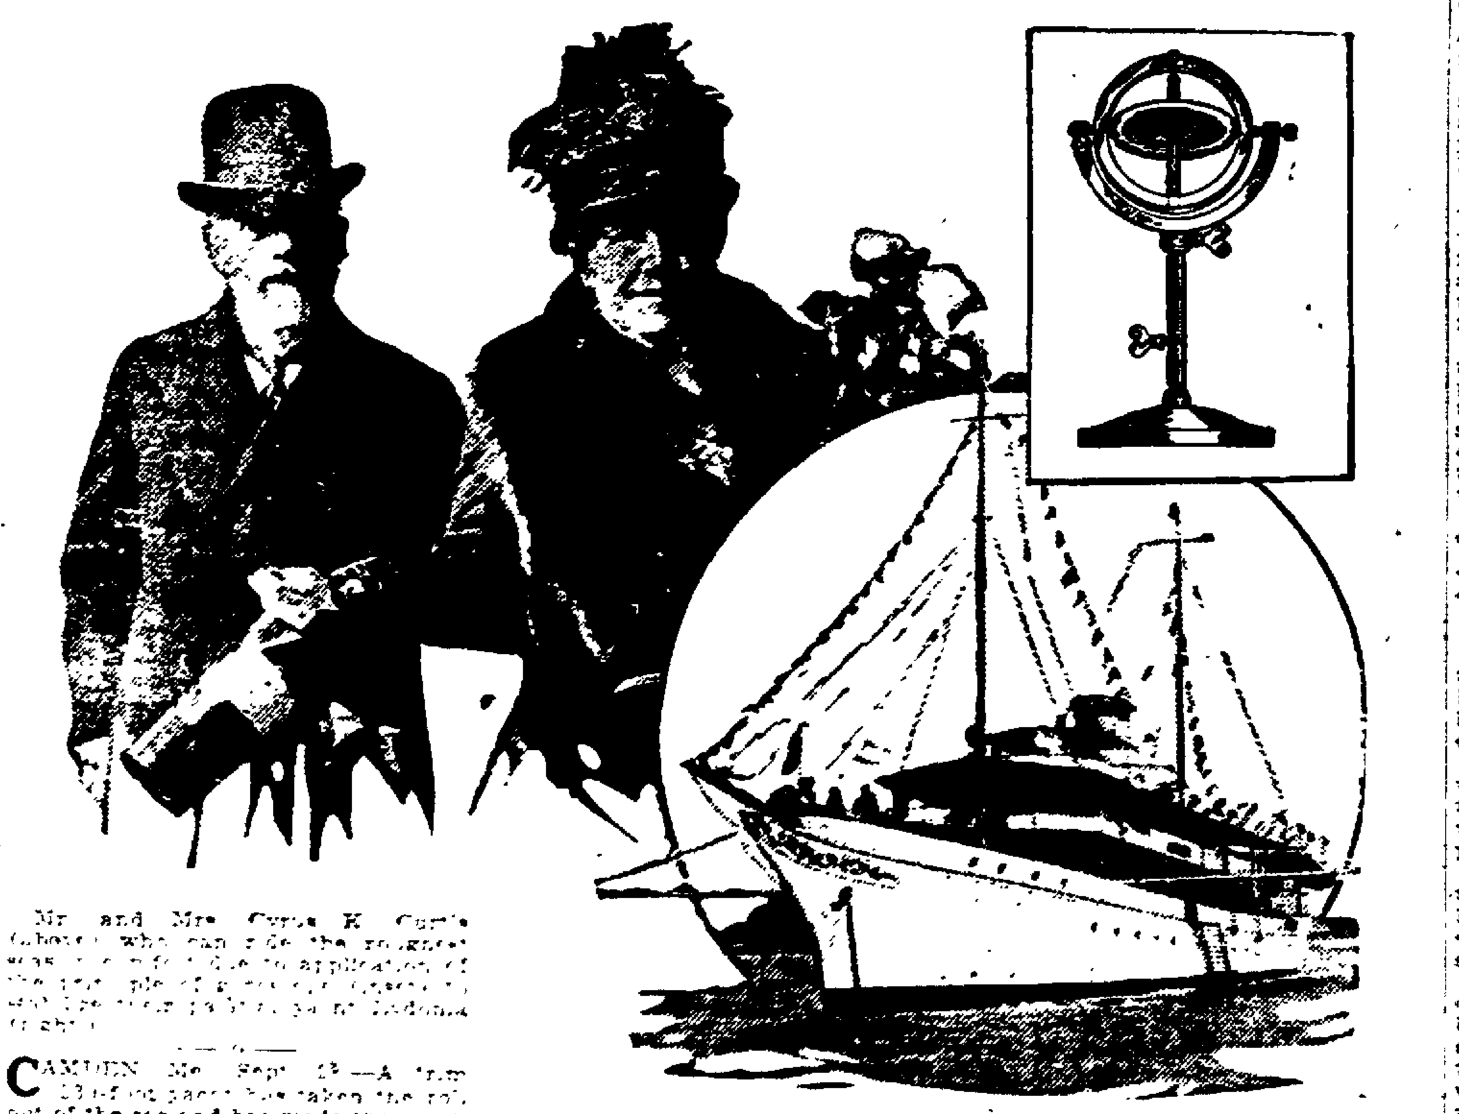

"'They say'? Who, please, are 'they'?"

"Oh, there's a lot of talk going around the ship. You know how it is, a crew will gossip. And God knows they've got enough excuse this cruise."

This was constructively evasive. Lanyard wondered who had betrayed him.

WILD WAVES TAMED BY TOP

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis (above) who can ride the roughest seas in comfort due to application of the principle of gyroscope (insert) and the steam yacht Lydonia (right).

CAMDEN, Me., Sept. 27—A trim 230-foot yacht has taken the roll out of the sea and has made the ocean [illegible]

[illegible] Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher of the Ladies' Home Journal and the Saturday Evening Post, has fixed his Lydonia.

This is said to be the most beautiful yacht in America, an ocean-going palace [illegible] [illegible]

Lodging rooms, smokers, staterooms with private baths, showers, pantry, cold storage and electric lighting plants make living on board as pleasant as stopping at a first-class hotel.

But the chief wonder of the yacht [illegible] a spinning top device which keeps it from rocking even in the stormiest weather.

The gyro stabilizer invented by Elmer A. Sperry has proved so successful on the Lydonia and other yachts that the United States shipping board has ordered one for a vessel in its transatlantic service.

According to Ronald R. Nelson, member of the crew who had charge of the apparatus.

The stabilizer is just a 'spinning top harnessed up with a control gyro to govern the action of the wheel. The reaction of this device—the force with which it acts upon the ship, does the work. By the stabilizer's oscillations back and forth, a big wave hitting the vessel on one side will pass under and out to sea on the other side without having imparted to the ship even a sign of a roll.

"With the stabilizer on, the ship needs no helm. No matter how calm or how rough, or which direction the sea was running, the ship would practically steer herself."

The Lydonia is also equipped with the latest submarine signal device and powerful radio set. It has a cruising radius of 6,000 miles.

The gyro compass is the latest development of the toy gyroscope, the familiar spinning top, whose rotation at a speed of 800 revolutions per minute enables it to accomplish marvelous feats in equilibration.

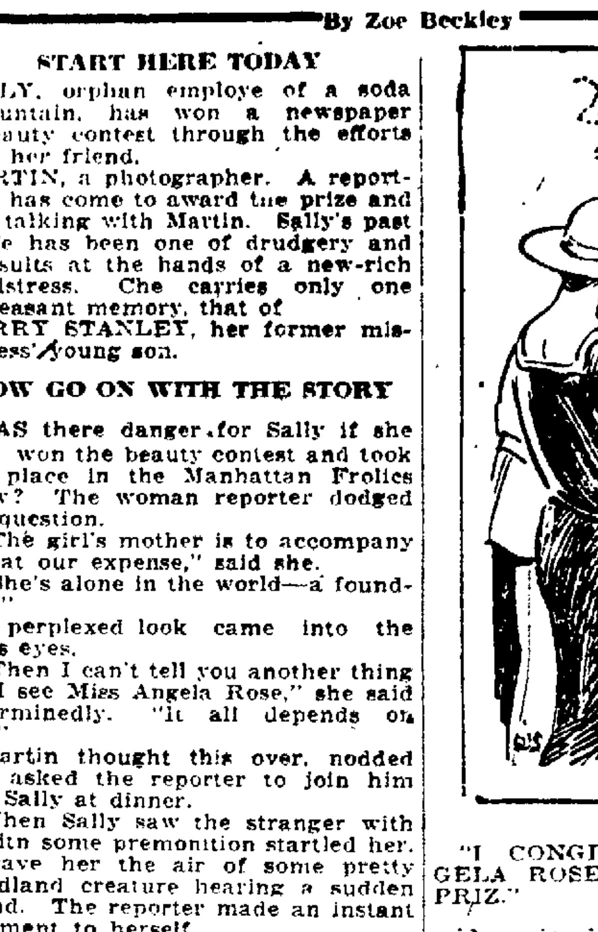

On ship board the constantly spinning gyroscope anticipates the approaching swell and balances the ship to meet it. All other types of ship stabilizers used heretofore, have been of inert matter, functioning only after the rolling motion was well under way.

The principle is being used with success in stabilizing airplanes.

CINDERELLA SALLY—NO. 10

Sally Wins The Beauty Contest

By Zoe Beckley

"I CONGRATULATE YOU, ANGELA ROSE. YOU'VE WON THE PRIZ."

START HERE TODAY

SALLY, orphan employe of a soda fountain, has won a newspaper beauty contest through the efforts of her friend,

MARTIN, a photographer. A reporter has come to award the prize and is talking with Martin. Sally's past life has been one of drudgery and insults at the hands of a new-rich mistress. Che carries only one pleasant memory, that of HARRY STANLEY, her former mistress' young son.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

WAS there danger for Sally if she won the beauty contest and took her place in the Manhattan Frolics show? The woman reporter dodged the question.

"The girl's mother is to accompany her at our expense," said she.

"She's alone in the world—a foundling."

A perplexed look came into the girl's eyes.

"Then I can't tell you another thing till I see Miss Angela Rose," she said determinedly. "It all depends on her."

Martin thought this over, nodded and asked the reporter to join him and Sally at dinner.

When Sally saw the stranger with Maritn some premonition startled her. It gave her the air of some pretty woodland creature hearing a sudden sound. The reporter made an instant comment to herself.

"She's as good as her picture—slender—lovely ankles—lively—she'll do!"

"Sally!" Martin laughed nervously. "Brace yourself for a shock. This is Miss Bennet of the American News Syndicate. She's come to tell you you've a chance to win the beauty prize—job in the chorus at the Manhattan Frolics—New York—you've read about it."

"I congratulate you, Angela Rose," said Lucy Bennet heartily, holding out her hand. "You've won the prize!"

"My name's Sally Dawson." Sally's dazed look frightened Martin.

"Never mind; come on and eat," he cried jovially, "we've got to celebrate!"

By the time the three were seated at the best table in the Commercial House restaurant, Sally was in possession of the facts. It was Miss Bennet herself, however, who frankly put before her the possibilities.

"Mr. Martin here—who is your very real friend—and I feel you should know just what is before you," she said seriously, but with a cordial smile that won Sally's confidence.

"Of course, if you had your mother to advise and help you, there wouldn't be much chance of this turning out wrong.

"As it is, our syndicate will try to keep you under its wing a bit. But first and last, it will be up to you, Miss—Sally, to make something good out of this chance."

The word "chance" always had an effect on Sally like a trumpet call. "Chance" to her meant "opportunity," never risk.

She was thinking hard now, and thrills were beginning to surge through her. Of course, if she didn't make good, there would be the humiliating return to Branchville—a wren who had thought she could be a peacock.

But she would not permit this picture to stay in her mind.

"I'll take the chance," she said in the same quiet tone she had once used to her old mistress, Mrs. Stanley of Terrace Road.

Designers Grow Lavish Of Cloth

NEARLY all of the new fall frocks show a growing recklessness of material.

Many use panels and drapes and sleeves of fine pleating. All are longer and fuller. From one to five more yards of material is needed now than last season.

Colors are geogeous. Amber, cocoa, chocolate, bronze and the lighter golden browns are most popular and for evening wear the gold and flame shades are most in demand.

Embroidery is used to a great extent and so are trimmings of the material itself—pleatings and tucks often lined with silk of a brilliant shade to give a color contrast.

Escapes Without Scratch As Fast Train Hits Auto

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 27.—"And that is all there is to it," said Blair Runyan, employe of the Ohio state highway commission, as he lit a cigarette and walked away.

In twenty minutes the remains of what was once a five-ton automobile truck was cleared from the Pennsylvania tracks and the New York Flyer proceeded on its way.

"Some persons are born lucky," mused the engineer. "Here is a fellow in a truck hit by a train going sixty-five miles an hour and not a scratch."

The motor truck which Runyan was driving was hit by the train when at King's Mill, O., yesterday. The engine of the truck was thrown more than 200 feet and the truck, filled with gravel, was dragged a half mile, while the engineer made frantic efforts to stop the train.

Instead of finding Runyan's body, as was expected, the train crew found him on the cowcatcher of the engine uninjured.

"Thanks for the ride, old top," said Runyan, as passengers and train crew rubbed their eyes.

Saloonkeepers Purchasing Dry Agents' Photographs

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 27.—A new and fairly lucrative business is coming into being here as a result of prohibition, according to J. E. Jones, assistant national prohibition commissioner, who is here on a trip of inspection.

It is the selling of photographs of prohibition agents to saloonkeepers who violate both the spirit and the letter of the prohibition law.

New Jersey saloonkeepers, said Mr. Jones, are glad to pay $5 apiece for authentic photographs and are anxious to have a complete collection of government agents who operate in their territory.

Mr. Jones also has found that expert counterfeiters are turning from the manufacture of spurious currency to that of removal permits and whiskey bottle labels and are finding it a vocation "simpler of accomplishment, just as profitable, but not nearly so dangerous as making money."

MOBILE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

FORTH WORTH, Texas, Sept. 27.—The Mobile Bears are the champions of the Southland, by defeating the Fort Worth Panthers, 2 to 1, in the 7th game of the Dixie Series today. They brought the title to the Southern Association for the first time since the series was established as an annual feature between the Texas and Southern circuits in 1920. The Panthers won the first two games but the Bears retaliated by winning four subsequent games and clinching the title. One game ended in a tie.

Mobile now will meet Tulsa, champions of the Western League for the class A Baseball Championship of the South and West.

Danville High Wins First Game

MARTINSVILLE, Va., Sept. 27.—The Danville High school football team defeated the local High school team here this afternoon in the first game of the season for both teams by the score of 14 to 0. The Danville team showed better coaching, more speed in the backfield and better teamwork and deserved to win. However, the local team put up a splendid defense and at times held the Danville eleven, forcing a punt. Martinsville hopes to develop sufficiently between now and the return game (championship) which is to be played in Danville, to come out winner.

An accident to Robert Gregory, superintendent of public utilities here, a spectator at the game, marred the contest somewhat. Two players, one of Martinsville and one of Danville, were hurled over the side-lines during play, knocking Mr. Gregory down and breaking his leg. Mr. Gregory was given immediate attention and it is thought that his injury will not take take a more serious turn.

Danville was unable to score until the third quarter. During that period both touchdowns were made. The visitors were successful in both their "tryials for points," the new method of scoring one point after a touchdown has been made. The two points were made by place-kicks.

WOMEN GOLF PLAYERS BATTLE TO RETAIN PLACE

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS W Va Sept. 27—Golf, interesting throughout and at times sensational, was played on the Greenbrier course today as aspirants for National Golfing honors battled to retain places in the narrowing field of contestants in the womens national tournament. Close scores marked the contests, the second round of match play in nearly all instances.

There were few surprises in the day's results. No dark horses are left in the running to compete for entrance into the semi-finals. The eight players who survived the second round and make up the four pairs for tomorrow are all well known present day stars, many of them holders of golfing titles home and foreign.

Interest attached today to the playing of Miss Glenna Collette of Providence whose long driving and steady iron and approach shots have featured the tournament She disposed of her opponent Miss E. A. Hardin, Baltuerol, five up

Miss Edith Cummings, Onwentsia, came away victor over Mrs. David Gautt, of Memphis, one up

Mrs. Quetin Feitner, South Shore, defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Boston, winenr of many titles, 3 up and two.

The other battles were, for the most part, of the same tensity. The golfers again were favored with ideal weather.

The pairings for tomprrow which will narrow the field to semi-finals follow:

Miss Glenna Collette, vs Mrs. F. C Letts Jr.

Miss Edith Cumming vs Mrs. R. S. Barlow.

Mrs. Quetin Fietner vs Mrs H. Arnold Jackson.

Miss Alexa Stirling vs Mrs. William A. Gavin.

WAIVERS ASKED ON 17 PLAYERS WITH BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Officials of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club today announced that waivers had been asked on seventeen players.

President Ebbetts said that the club had its maximum number of players at the present time and room had to be made fo new players to be secured by draft and purchase. He cited the case of another club which had asked waivers on ten players. He declined to state the name of the club.

The Brooklyn Eagle, listed the following as those upon whom waivers had been asked:

Charles S. (Chuck) Ward. Harold Janvrin, Ivan Olson, Ray Schmandt, Sam Post, Lem Malone and Bill McCarren, infielders; Leon Cadore, Al Mamaux, Paul Schreiber, John Milius, Clarence Brown and Clarance Mitchell, pitchers, Barnard Hungling and Otto Miller, catchers, and Bernie Neis and John Roseberry outfielders.

Three stars—Burleigh Grimes, Hi Myers and Zack Wheat—have been placed on the block for sale or barter, the newspaper added, asserting that the trio were regarded by the management as "trouble makers."

W. & L. GETTING READY FOR GAME

SPORTS—W. & L. GETTING—LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 27.—With the first game of the season only two days off, the real strength of the 1922 Washington and Lee varsity still remains a question to be solved probably in the first two games of the season against Emory and Henry on Saturday and North Carolina State on October 7.

Handicapped by the lack of several of the best men in 1921 team and by the absence of new material from the freshman class, head coach Jimmy Dehart has had a big bill to whip into shape the 1922 varsity.

The fact that this year has marked a change in the coaching system makes it harder to predict just what success the Generals will meet with. With several varsity me still out of the line up due to recent injuries the outlook at present seems to be rather gloomy.

D. M. I. TO PLAY S. B. SATURDAY

The Danville Military Institute will open its 1922 football season with South Boston in the latter place Saturday. The D. M. I. squad has been hard at work on the fotoball field since the opening day of school. Reports from the school indicate that the team has rounded into fair shape for the contest.

Among the new men there is promising material and D. M. I. expects to turn out a winning team this year.

The first home game will be with Martinsville High o October 7.

POSITIONS ARE OCCUPIED

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—(By The Associated Press)—Kemalists forces have occupied without opposition positions in the regions of Dumbrek, Lampsaki, Yaghjilar and Sangakeli, all in the neutral zone of the Dardanelles. This is the fifth violation of the zone.

Remonstrances by the British officers failed to stay the advance of the Turks. British flags were posted throughout the invaded territory.

McGraw Adds One More Laurel To His Collection

NEW YORK, ept. 27.—By adding another pennant to the string that has fluttered from the flag pole at the Polo Grounds John Joseph McGraw becomes more securely esconded in his title of "Napoleon of Baseball."

Short, stocky, dapper, rudy faced and gray headed, McGraw looks more like a successful broker than a professional athlete. He appears as what the clothing adds classify as "smart," and if ever some twists shears him of success and reason he can get a pob posing for an oil painting of a cigarette smoker or the yatest in collars

His career is remarkable but not surprising. It was a sane, steady march to the heights of his profession, intercepted now and then by some flight of temperament or of temper, but it has all been in one direction. He is in the logical place for such alogical man to occupy.

McGraw was born in 1873 and so is just about turning the 50 mark. He began playing baseball as most American boys do as soon as he could toddle after one. His professional debut was made when he discarded short trousers, but whether he did one of those two thnigs to effect the other is a question which his biographers must debate.

The present manager of the champion Giants has been in the game professionally for 32 years, starting with the Oleon team of the New York State League, in 1890 when his reputation as a consistent hitter and reliable fielder spread from his native heath of Truxton, N. Y. Throughout his playing days he was one of the marveis of the diamond but his gray matter has made him a fixture.

Only one year did McGraw remain in Oleon signing a sheet for $60 a month. Next he went to Cedar Rapids where his stipend was more remunerative and his work more brilliant. His shortstopping was so remarkable that a big league scout came to look him over, saw him and was captivated.

The youthful "Mugsy" went to Baltimore, then the tail-enders in a 12-club circuit. It was in April 1891 that McGraw broke into fast company, little more than a year after his entry in the professional ranks. His first season he warmed the bench, but in 1892 Ned Hanlon, the Orioles' new manager, tried out John Joseph at second base and then shifted him to third where he gained a reputation.

McGraw has always been recognized as the peer of any who preceded or followed him at the "hot corner," his peculiar forte being the fielding of bunts. He was a year-in-and-year out .350 hitter and fast on the paths. His individual playing was one of the factors in the success of the old Orioles

With Wilbert Robinson, formerly of the Gians and now manager of the Brooklyn team, McGraw was sold to the St. Louis club in 1900 for $18,000. Both players were ill-pleased and when the American League reared its head in 1900 the Giants' present mentor aligned himself with Ban B. Johnson.

He went back to Baltimore and organized a team that was one of the most popular in the history of the game. But in 1902 McGraw and Johnson came to the parting of the ways and in mid-season the Baltimore team was so disorganized that Mugsy took off his spiked shoes and announced they were on the shelf forever.

At that time the late Andrew Freedman was sorrowed by the spectacle of the slow-going Giants, the team he owned. McGraw was recommended to him and was hired, taking the helm in July and remaining in charge since.

The game has grown big—has had virtually all of its growth and growing pains—in McGraw's professional time. When he came to New York the old Polo Grounds seated 12,000, now it is 38,000 and a third tier to the grandstand is to be added next year. McGraw's life is insured by the club for $100,000 and he owns a fair share of operating company's stock

Year	Position.	Year	Position
1902	2	1912	1

SUNDAY'S PAPER WILL TELL YOU ABOUT ANN

Advertising Is On the Increase In United States

(BY J. C. ROYLE)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Merchants and dealers throughout the entire country are increasing their advertising. This is especially evident in the daily newspaper advertising field, according to reports received by telegraph within the last twenty-four hours from representative cities in all sections of the country. The average increase in the amount of newspaper advertising in twenty-five cities so far this month is from ten to twelve per cent above the average for September, 1921, and shows a decided increase also over August, 1922.

With higher prices for many commodities in prospect, merchants are making a strong apeapl for the patronage of the country, and there is every indication that they will continue their campaigns to this end. As a result newspapers have been compelled to print larger papers and figures which became available for the first time today show that the consumption of newsprint paper has reacher the rate of 2,200,000 tons annually.

This rate will be maintained and increased not only throughout the remainder of 1922 but all next year, according to officials of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association today. As a result, higher prices for newsprint are in prospect and figures compiled today show that the paper mills will have one of the best years in their history.

Production of newsprint which was curtailed for a time by the coal strike and transportation difficulties, now is approaching capacity That production will be further increased in 1923 both by the addition of new plants and added equipment, but by the conversion of machines now making wallpaper and other grades to the manufacture of newsprint. That increase, however, will not keep pace with demand next year, according to opinions expressed by representative paper men who estimate that the increase in the amount of paper used by existing newspaper next year will be between four and five per cent greater than the increase in production. This will make the United States dependent for at least a part of its newsprint supply upon the foreign mills

The foreign papers, as is usual, have been the first to feel the approaching shortage. In the last two days, bids have been received from European publishers of $80 a ton for newsprint. The Canadian prices for the fourth quarter of this year are not expected to show a heavy advance although they probably will be higher than for the last three months.

Publishers are moving slowly both in the purchase of spot supplies and of commitments for the fourth quarter and for next year. They are waiting for production to reach its maximum before entering the market and in the meantime are making efforts to hold consumption down as far as growing advertising demands will permit.

Prices for other grades of paper than newsprint are advancing. Stocks in the hands of jobbers and mill agents are lower than they have been for three years Dealers and manufacturers handling commercial paper, bag papers, wrapping papers and writing papers reported today that they were doing a better business than before the war. This demand for commercial papers, they said, is an accurate index of the increase in business activity and of industrial prosperity throughout the country.

WISCONSIN GEOLOGIST HUNTS MOTHER LODE

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 27—When glaciers crept down from the north, gouging out the great lakes and upset primitive topography, they left a trail of gold which Hugo Meyers, geologist, expects to follow in an attempt to locate the mother lode.

Gold nuggets, worth as much as $40 apiece, have been found on the Dr. Harrison farm near Canton, Ill. Geologists explained that the gold has been carried south by glaciers during the ice age.

On his annual prospecting tour, just completed, through Wisconsin and Illinois, Meyers found $30 worth of gold.

"The trail is fairly well defined," he said. "It is littered with gold and with diamonds. Geologists advance the theory that the glaciers swept across the source, or mother lode, somewhere in the far north and carried the nuggets south."

Meyers is preparing for his next journey into the north country. He recently returned from the Yukon where he completed preliminary steps of his plan to prospect for the omther lode.

OXEN SCARCE IN AMERICA

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—"Times do change," is the unanimous verdict of officials of the American Electric Railway association who searched three months for a team of oxen to be used in connection with the annual convention here October 2-6.

"When someone suggested an ox team to show the stages in the progress of transportation everyone agreed that finding oxen would be easy," said Secretary James W. Welsh.

"But when we began to look for them we couldn't find one. Ezra Meeker, an Oregon trail pioneer who drove an ox team about the country in the interest of good roads, was appealed to but his team was stuffed and on exhibition in Seattle, Wash.

"We asked stockyard officials, wild west shows and many others. Eventually we heard of one blind ox in Phillips, Wis., and, after getting the entire city interested in the search, we located a yoke near there."

Together with the pageant showing old and new types of transportation, the convention will hear addresses from all living former presidents of the orgaizatio, may of whom ran horse car lines, according to plans Trackless stransportation, taxes and public relations are other subjects included on the program.

NEGROES SUPERSTITIOUS ABOUT BOLL WEEVIL

MONROE, N. C., Sept. 27.—Colored helpers on plantations in Union county have gone on a most unusual strike.

They are reported to have refused to lift a hand in the country-wide drive under way to rid the farmers of the boll weevil menace

Reports from the rural districts say that strange and peculiar superstitions are responsigle for the attitude of the negroes.

Report that a farm hand in Georgia was struck dead by lightning while picking a weevil from a cotton stalk, spread through this county and threw the negroes into a panic.

Other stories say that the blacks believe that the weevil has been sent as a punishment to the country and that anyone interfering with the plague will be put under a spell.

ATTACK IS MADE ON HAYS BY PREACHER

STUEBENVILLE, O., Sept. 27.—William Hays has lot been employed by the Motion Picture Interest for political purposes and to "clean up the movies" as people would believe, Rev. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Federation of Churches, charged in an address before the conference of United States Presbyterian Synod of Ohio here today. "The screen has entered politics and from this day on it will be a factor in the election of every kind for public office" Mr. Lamb declared.

BANK BANDITS ROUTED IN ARK.; TWO ARE KILLED

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 27—Five bandits, heavily armed rode into this mountain town in two automobiles at 11 o'clock this morning to rob the First National Bank.

Tonight, the bodies of two are in an undertakers establishment, one bandit is so badly wounded his death is momentarily expected, and two other members of the gang, also wounded, are in the guarded jail, as the result of a battle with citizens. The dead robbers have been identified as Sid Wilson, 40, and George Price, 40, both of Crookstown, Okla. Charles Price, brother of George Price is the man not expected to live and Mark Hendricks 45, Park Hill Okla., and Sam Cowan, driver of one of the bandits automobiles are the men in jail.

On entering the town the men drove directly to the bank. They made the usual commands which were obeyed by the bank employes.

The robbers looted the bank vaults, securing $95,000 in bonds and $25,000 in cash which they placed in sacks.

While they were at their work, E. G. Smith, cashier of the bank, stepped on a button which sounded an alarm simultaneously in five business houses.

The citizens were ready when the quintette emerged from bank with their sacks of loot. From places of vantage gun fire was directed at the robbers, who returned the hail of lead.

None of the bandits' shots took effect.

NORFOLK WANTS RANDOLPH-MACON MOVED TO CITY

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 27.—A committee of Norfolk business men told trustees of Randolph-Macon College today it would be willing to undertake a campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the college and provide it a suitable site, if the institution is moved from Ashland to Norfolk. The trustees will make a report to the Methodist conference which meets here October 13.

A conference between the committee of business men and five members of the Randolph-Macon board of trustees was held in the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon and the offer to hold the campaign for funds for the school was the culmination of several months of effort on the part of members of the committee to arouse public interest in the proposed removal of the college to this city. The Methodists conference which meets here next month and the Baltimore conference which meets next March, are interested in the destiny of the college, and will have the last word in deciding for or against the change of location.

A site of approximately 100 acres has been suggested as a proper location for the school.

The Randolph-Macon trustees present at the conference were:

G. C. Wright, Petersburg, chairman of the committee of five; Dr. B F. Lipscomb, Lynchburg, James P. Woods, Roanoke; H. P. Hamil, Alexandria and E F. Stary, Franklin.

SENATOR WATSON WILL BE BURIED AT THOMSON, GA.

THOMSON, GA., Sept. 27—A simple funeral service, in observance of the wishes of the dead Georgian, will be held tomorrow over the body of United States Senator Thomas E Watson, who died in Washington Tuesday, before it is consigned to its last resting place in Thomson cemetery beside other members of the Watson family.

When the funeral party arrives from Washington shortly before noon, the body will be taken to the Watson home on Hickory Hill, where the casket will remain open for a short time to permit the family and close friends a last look on the familiar features of the "Sage of McDuffie," as he was known in his county. It was announced tonight there will be no church services and no singing

Floral tributes and telegrams of condolence were arriving at the Watson home by the hundreds tonight from all sections of the country.

Hundreds of visitors expected here for the funeral tomorrow will tax the town of Thomson to the capacity. In addition to the Congressional party which will accompany the body of Senator Watson from Washington there will be a large delegation of State Officials from Atlanta and other delegations from nearly all the larger cities of the state.

Says U. S. Living For Stomach Alone

Meredith Nicholson Noted Writer Avers America's Heart and Soul Is Starving.

(By JOHN O'DONNELL.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Meredith Nicholson, novelist and essayist says.

"America reached its spiritual peak at the time of the Civil War. For the past 50 years, America's spiritual qualities and idealism have steadily degenerated.

"Now a world grown gray with materialism, the younger people have cracked the barriers of yesteryear, have given sex virtue an indifferent status in their scheme of things and have forced every intelligent observer of American life to the sober conclusion that the old concept of marriage, the home, religion, sex standard are gone—definitely and absolutely gone."

Nicholson's summary was given sadly. The enthusiastic gusto with which an intellectual revolter applauds the passing of mid-Victorian laws was lacking in his statement.

Bemoans Passing of Victorian Days

"I am not at one with those who cheer the passing of Victorian times," says Nicholson. "I think the happiest and most enlightened period in American life was the Victorian era.

"True there might have been some hypocrisy and a reticence which today would cause a smile, but the great bulk of the people led happier lives and—this is important—intellectually it was one of the greatest periods in Americas existence.

"In those days respect for the Christian church and for moral standards is accompanied a spiritual attitude which came to a beautiful flowering in the Civil War.

"America's participation in the World War awakened no such spiritual qualities in this nation as the Civil War awakened. Out of our experience in the great war there has come but one great and splendid idea—the League of Nations. This was a wonderful and beautiful thing. It was immediately dragged down and made the football of partisan politics.

"Today Americans are the slaves of materialism. We are living for the stomach alone while the nation's heart and soul is starving."

"Do you think this let-down of moral standards by the so-called younger generation is a passing phase or a definite change in our civilization?" he was asked.

America Deteriorated

"The colapse of old social laws controlling sex relations is the greatest social phenomenon in America since the landing of the Pilgrims,' the novelist replied. "We must make up our mind that the old morality is gone that the young people of both sexes are indifferent to rules of any kind and that in matters of sex they are rapidly going toward a single standard."

"And will a single standard be the high one formerly demanded of women or the lower one of men?"

"I had hoped you wouldn't ask that question." Nicholson smiled. "Certainly the young women of today hold virtue more cheaply than did their mothers and grandmothers. Perhaps it may hold out this hope—its an idealistic hope, perhaps—but the only one I see. The realization that man's example is having a bad effect on women may force men to change.

"But the spiritual collapse, the deterioration of America is seen in other ways than sex. It is shown in education politics the church.

"Out in Indiana, the quality of spoken English is poorer today than it any time since the first settlers. Our schools everywhere are littered with nonsense. People who think that we are reaching a higher level of cultivation are plain fools.

"Politics presents the same situation from another angle. Local pride does not express itself in a desire to see the native town or city well governed. Men would rather boast of the largest factory than the best municipal government. As a result many cities are run by crooks.

Intelligent People too Careless

"So with the churches. The Christain churches are putting up a fight to hold the marriage custom and the Christian tradition. But what is the situation? The Protestant churchmen are frankly bewildered by the whirl of new ideas and the crashing of old customs. More important, the preachers are of poorer quality than in former days.

"There was a time when a host would greet his Sunday guest with an invitation to hear some fine preacher. Now you are asked to go to the golf links. The first-rate men of our colleges are not in the theological schools. They are taking engineering and law."

"Can you suggest a way out?"

"We haven't enough facts to make new rules. The realistic novelists are gathering data on contemporary life but we must wait until more facts are presented. We must stop the careless attitude of intelligent people toward politics and society."

MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Two Women Dead After Quarrel Over Flannel

SUNCOOK, N. H., Sept. 26.—Mrs Harry G. Carpenter, of this town, was shot and killed today by her next door neighbor, Mrs. Berton Goward, who then went into her own house and committed suicide, Medical Examiner Loren Sanders announced tonight.

When the bodies of the two women were found, earlier in the day, it was believed Mrs. Carpenter had died of heart disease while running to summon assistance when she found her neighbor dead. Examination of the woman's body later revealed a bullet wound in the back.

A quarrel between the two women over the price of a piece of flannel led to the shooting, according to information given the police tonight. Mrs Goward, the authorities said, had bought the flannel from Mrs. Carpenter and when the latter came today to collect there was a dispute.

Mrs Carpenter, the police believe, had been leaving to return to her own home when she was shot from behind by Mrs Goward who then went into the kitchen of her home and turned the pistol on herself.

Neighbors said that Mrs Goward had appeared despondent for some time and had frequently referred to financial troubles.

Curtail Search On High Seas

NIKOLAIEV, Russia, Sept. 27.—Hogary peasants in this district are sheltering their cattle in their houses because of an epidemic of cattle stealing. Extreme shortage of livestock has put a high premium on cattle, with the result that those fortunate enough to own even one head find it much safer to keep the animal under the family roof.

Flowers On Grave Specified In Will

NEW YORK, Sept 26.—An unusual feature of the will of Charles Greer, millionaire owner of Brookside farm, a country estate at Harrison on the Sound, filed at White Plains, yesterday, is his specific orders about floral decorations on the graves of his wife and himself the color of the flowers and the times when the decorations shall be placed.

As no petition was filed the value of the estate is not known. It was estimated at the Surrogate's office that Mr Greer left between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000. Mr Greer was killed by a taxicab in Chicago.

The major part of the fortune is inherited by the testator's sons, George and Christopher Meyer Greer.

$4,000 to a Cemetery.
